DEPENDS ON THE TEMPER OF ASSEMBLY

Governor Wants to Know If It Will Act If It Is Summoned.

HESITATES TO MAKE MISTAKE

Extra Session Quite Costly, but Not More So Than Continuance of Troops.

ARBITRATION LAW DESIRED BY STONE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 31.—Whether or not Gov. Stone will call a special session of the general assembly to secure legislation looking to the arbitration of the anthracite coal strike depends upon the members of the legislature. The governor desires that some measure be adopted speedily which will force miners and operators to arbitrate their differences, and the only way that suggests itself to him is legislation making arbitration compulsory.

He has no means of knowing positively whether the legislature would enact an arbitration bill that would be satisfactory to both sides, and there is nothing to indicate that he has made a systematic effort to obtain the sentiments of the members of the general assembly on this question.

The cost of an extra session would not fall short of $150,000, even if it should continue for only 10 days, and the governor does not feel justified in putting the state to this expense without ascertaining in advance if the result, which he proposes to bring about would be attained.

The cost of maintaining the troops now on duty in the strike region is hardly less than $3,000 a day, and if they are not soon recalled the expense will be as great as the estimated cost of an extra session of the legislature.

Stone went to Pittsburgh this afternoon on private business, and if he should decide to call an extra session nothing will be done until after he returns on Thursday. In the governor's absence none of the state officials here tonight will discuss the rumors or the possibility of an extra session.

Gov. William A. Stone, accompanied by his wife and daughter, arrived in Pittsburgh last evening. They are the guests of the governor's son, Stephen Stone, at his home in Baywood street, East End.

The governor says that he is here on business and politics are not on politics. He will remain for several days. On the question of calling an extra session of the legislature to enact an compulsory arbitration law in the hope of settling the anthracite strike, Stone is silent. He said he would not discuss anything pertaining to politics or the coal strike.

THE SENATORS READY TO MEET MITCHELL

Thus far the Miners' President, Who Is at Atlantic City, Has Not Sought an Interview.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 31.—Notwithstanding numerous reports that John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers, would confer here today with Senators Quay and Penrose regarding the anthracite strike, there was no such meeting. Both of the senators were seen by The Gazette representative at the Quay cottage tonight and both said there had not been a conference with Mr. Mitchell. While denying that arrangements had been made for a conference with the miners' president, Senator Quay again announced that he is ready to meet him at any time.

Mr. Mitchell came to Atlantic City this morning in company with Mr. Fahy, president of District No. 9, but his visit, he declared, was merely for a brief rest from the cares brought about by the strike in the anthracite region. Shortly after his arrival he donned a bathing costume and evidently enjoyed a long battle with the breakers.

President Mitchell declined to say anything about the strike, merely replying in answer to questions that he did not care to make any statement while here. Tonight he returned to Philadelphia, where he is to participate in the celebration of Labor day.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31.—President Mitchell spent Sunday at Atlantic City, returning to the city late tonight. Mr. Mitchell denied he went to the seashore to see Senator Quay or Penrose, and said he did not see either of them or any other person on strike matters. There is a well-founded belief that he saw several persons on the question of donating funds for the relief of the striking miners. President Mitchell will be the central figure in the Labor day celebration here tomorrow. He will make two addresses at Washington park on the New Jersey side of the Delaware river. The entire proceeds of the picnic will be given to the miners' relief fund.

PLAY WAS REALISTIC.

Leading Man Wounded in Execution Scene on the Stage.

WOOSTER, O., Aug. 31.—(Special)—The execution scene of "Under Two Flags" came near being the real thing here last night. A theatrical company gave a production of the play. When the mimic executioners fired a volley from their muskets the leading man, J. Charles Haynes, threw up his hands, staggered a moment, then rallied and finished his part to the fall of the curtain.

As Haynes started to walk off the stage he fell. His associates found that he was covered with blood. A surgeon was called and found that the wads from the blank cartridges had lodged in Haynes' body, the first in the right breast, the second plowing a furrow across the abdomen and the third imbedding itself in the cheek below the right eye. The wound in the face proved to be the worst, as the entire wad was cut out of the flesh. The surgeon states that this wound and the one over the abdomen are grave, because of the danger of blood poisoning.

THE WAR GAME GIVES WAY TO WOMAN'S WILES

Instead of Seeking the Enemy, Fleet Entertains a Duchess.

CAPTAINS DECLINE TO SEE THE FUNCTION

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

On Board Gazette Dispatch Boat Avenel, off Menemsha Bight, Via Woods Hole, Aug. 31.—There is war in the fleet of Rear Admiral Higginson—war more real than the make-believe one which the hitherto united services are to begin at midnight, and woman is the cause of it all.

Capt. French E. Chadwick, president of the Naval War college, was a visitor to the flagship Kearsarge yesterday afternoon. Shortly after his appearance on board a general signal was made by the flagship, "Commanding officers report on board flagship."

There was an immediate calling away of steam cutters, and one after another the captains of the fleet of warships went trooping up the gangway of the flagship and into the cabin of the admiral, all in full uniform and with swords clanking at their heels, and all wondering what new and important plan of strategy the admiral had in mind that made necessary a personal council.

The Duchess a Marplot.

When all the captains had reported and were assembled in the flag officers' quarters of the Kearsarge the admiral arose and announced that the fleet would remain inactive, arrangements having been made to receive the Duchess of Marlborough, and that to this reception, the admiral added, all of the commanding officers of the fleet were cordially invited.

There was a moment of embarrassing silence, and then one captain, who had a reputation for straightforward speech, made vehement and open protest. There was, he explained, no objection to a reception to the duchess—there could be none—but the time, he urged, was inopportune.

Here was the fleet, he impetuously pointed out, ready to move at an instant's notice, kept in constant, wearing readiness for this very time; and just at the very moment when it should strike everything must give way to a social function which could take place at any time.

All of the other captains took the same view. Their view was that the maneuvers would be of no consequence if played out as a summer divertisement for society folk; that it would make a farce of the whole proceeding and benefit neither service.

Marlborough Party Arrives.

The admiral abruptly announced his decision to adhere to his plan of entertainment and the council was soon dissolved, the captains returning to their ships and giving orders looking to the relief of the strain on the engineer forces, which had been keeping the vessels under fires so heavily banked that it was equivalent to actual steaming under service conditions.

Sunday came, and with it the duchess and her party, arriving on the Astor yacht, the Nourmahal, that in turn escorted by the torpedo boat Morris. It was shortly after the noon hour when the Nourmahal came to anchor near the flagship and the flag lieutenant went in a steam cutter to bear greetings of welcome. Luncheon was served on board the Nourmahal, and at about 2 o'clock the duchess of Marlborough's party boarded the waiting launches and set out for the flagship. The party included the duchess, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mr. and Mrs. John Jacob Astor, Miss Alice Blight, Mr. Sanger, assistant secretary of war, and Harry Lehr.

The yacht came in flying the flag of the assistant secretary, a pennant which is so rarely seen afloat that there was much wonderment among the navy officers as to what it was.

As the visiting fleet of launches drew alongside the battleship, the band assembled on the quarterdeck struck up a tune, and as the party came on board, the admiral and his staff receiving the visitors at the gangway. Soon the band started on a two-step and the big superposed turrets began to waltz, revolving first to one side, then to the other, for the edification of the guests.

The Captains Snub the Party.

Meanwhile quartermasters of the flagship were on eager lookout for other visitors, the commanding officers who had been invited; but not one of these appeared. After a two-hours' stay on board the party came trooping down the gangway again, and as the boats shoved off there rang out on the Sunday air a salute of 15 guns for a departing assistant secretary of war—an explosive farewell, which for upwards of a quarter of a century has been discountenanced on Sundays by navy regulations.

The weather all day was hazy and tonight a fog is threatened, and every precaution was taken to guard against an attack after midnight, the time at which actual hostilities may begin.

At intervals all day the big guns and mortars at the forts near New London belched forth fire and smoke and sent shot several miles at imaginary targets illustrative of moving ships. The concussion was so great that it was plainly felt in the town.

Maj. Gen. MacArthur and Gen. Greely, chief signal officer, will be at Ft. Trumbull until after the "enemy" is sighted, and will then proceed to whatever point may be considered the most advantageous for the direction of the movements of the army forces. It is believed that the plan of signals is the most complete ever established in the world, and every precaution has been taken to have substitutes for any system that may be destroyed or captured by the "enemy."

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 31.—Under cover of fog and the blackness of night, the North Atlantic fleet slipped its cable in Menemsha Bight, Vineyard sound, shortly before 10 o'clock tonight and put to sea, making the first move afloat in the war game.

MAN UNDER THE BED.

James Johnston, Colored, Dragged from His Hiding Place.

A burly negro was discovered last night beneath a bed in the house of Michael Fulaszwski at No. 2942 Mulberry alley.

The discovery was made by the Pole and his wife when they were about to retire. Evidently the negro was not aware his feet were protruding from under the bed and giving him away. Fulaszwski wisely made no outcry when he saw the negro's feet, but went for Police Officer Sylvester Doyle, who looked the fellow up. He gave his name as James Johnston.

MORO SULTAN IS SHOT DEAD BY SENTINEL

TAFT HOLDS OUT HOPE TO FILIPPINO PEOPLE

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Manila, Aug. 31.—The sultan of Bindayan, who was held as a hostage by the American forces at Camp Vickers, island of Mindanao, attempted to escape from his guards last Thursday and was shot and killed by a sentry. The sultan had been arrested after the recent murders of American soldiers in Mindanao and was being held pending the surrender of the murderers.

Gov. Taft was given a banquet by the American Chamber of Commerce of Manila last night. In an address replying to a toast, the governor said the United States would retain the islands indefinitely with the view of educating the Filipinos to a state of self-government, and other conditions which would enable them to decide whether they desired to become independent or be made into a state, like Canada or Australia under Great Britain.

Gov. Taft said he believed the relationship between the two peoples would be continued, and that the Americans are here for the benefit of the Filipinos. He said the Americans do not desire the islands for selfish purposes, and promised that American capital would get fair treatment here.

Continuing, the governor expressed his belief that commercial interests must ultimately rely upon Filipino labor, although a temporary relaxation of the immigration restrictions is possible. He said the United States civil commission would again recommend congress to give the Philippine islands a gold standard of currency, as the present fluctuating silver standard is a disadvantage to everybody.

Luke E. Wright, who acted as civil governor of the islands during the recent absence of Judge Taft, also spoke at the chamber of commerce dinner. He expressed the opinion that the true future of the islands depends upon the admission of their products to American markets. Commissioner Wright regretted that the Philippine question had been made a football in American politics.

The cholera is increasing. Last Saturday 240 cases were reported in the provinces. The totals reported up to date are 27,920 cases and 19,640 deaths from the disease.

As a result of the war, rinderpest among the cattle and the epidemic of cholera, agriculture is at present seriously depressed throughout the Philippine islands. Gov. Taft estimates the area under cultivation this year at half that of an ordinary year. Many districts are badly impoverished.

TROOPS PERSUADE NON-UNION MINERS TO JOIN STRIKE

West Virginia Soldiers Playing the Role of Labor Agitators.

DETACHMENT IS RECALLED

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Parkersburg, W. Va., Aug. 31.—An unexpected situation has resulted from the ordering out of the national guard to preserve order in the coal fields. The troops were ordered out at the demand of the mine owners for the purpose of protecting their property and the men working for them against the striking miners and any violence they might offer. But it was the unexpected that occurred.

The soldiers, whose sympathies were all with the strikers at first, have used their influence with the men who are at work and have persuaded so many of them to join in the strike that the detachment stationed at Rush Run had to be recalled and sent to another point to keep it from emptying the mine. The soldiers were sent to protect the miners from attempted violence while going to and from their work, and it was supposed they would prevent any attempt to induce the men to quit work. But they took advantage of their opportunities to talk with the men in a way which the strikers had no opportunity to do, and they proved to be so influential with them that many of the men left their work. It is probable that the troops will all be ordered home very soon at the further request of the operators.

Hundreds of families are sleeping tonight with only the shelter of the skies for protection. It is estimated that over 1,000 families have been evicted in the New River valley, and most of them had no place to go. Some had friends and secured shelter, but the majority are homeless, without even so much as a tent.

There is talk of a subscription to buy tents for them. Food is scarce with them, and the condition of the men is pitiable in the extreme. Some of the soldiers have even shared their food, provided by the state, with the families of the men who are on strike and are hungry.

BIG BALLOON STARTS ON A LONG VOYAGE

Leaves Denver With Three Occupants and Is Expected to Reach New York.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

DENVER, Aug. 31.—"Big Glory," one of the largest balloons ever constructed, was successfully started from this city this afternoon on a trip, the purpose of which is to break the world's long distance record, as well as all previous records for fast ballooning. It is expected ultimately to reach New York.

The balloon contains 140,000 cubic feet of hydrogen gas and was built especially for this trip. The occupants of the balloon are Capt. T. S. Baldwin and Percy Hudson, aeronauts, and C. S. Sherman, a member of the staff of the Denver Post. Bottles containing messages will be dropped to earth by parachutes and these messages will indicate the coure of travel and experience of the travelers.

ANDREW CARNEGIE TO HAVE A RESIDENCE IN LONDON.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Andrew Carnegie is to become a resident of Park lane, the most fashionable and high-priced street in London. He has this week completed the purchase from the young duke of Westminster of a plot of ground in South street leading into Park lane just beyond the handsome house of J. P. M[illegible] Jr.—"Jack" Morgan, as he is usually called here.

I am informed that the house will be as much like his great mansion in Fifth avenue, in New York, as it is possible for a London house to be, and that the cost will be something like $5,000,000. It is reported that building operations will be commenced early next year and that the architects already have the matter in hand.

Mr. Carnegie will reside for his immediate neighbor Lord Brassey, the dowager countess of Aberdeen, Lady Henry Somerset, Alfred Beit, the richest man in England, Adolph Edstein and J. B. Robinson, two other South African millionaires.

Mr. Carnegie is planning to leave for America early in September and expects to return to [illegible] in November.

SOUGHT SUICIDE AFTER ATTEMPT TO KILL WIFE

John Karol Slashed His Wife and Then Cut His Throat.

DIED IN HOSPITAL BUT WIFE WILL LIVE

John Karol made a desperate attempt last evening to kill his young wife, Mary, and ended his own life.

He and his wife were taken to the South Side hospital, she bearing a dozen or more wounds which her husband inflicted with a razor, and he with his throat slashed open with the same weapon. He died in the hospital at 1:30 o'clock this morning.

The bloody affray occurred at No. 8 Magnolia street, where the couple had engaged a room with Mrs. Agnes Kirk until they could go to housekeeping. Shortly after 7 o'clock Mrs. King heard the sound of a scuffle and the screams of a woman coming from their rooms. She rushed upstairs, but found the door locked, and ran outside for assistance. John Tierces of No. 3 Gregory street, responded, and broke open the door.

A fearful sight met his gaze as the couple were struggling about the room and both were covered with blood. Karol ceased his attack when the door flew open, and the woman was taken from the room by the neighbors, who came in, and while they were with her Karol tried to hang himself, having the rope about his neck and hanging from it when they returned.

He was cut down, but immediately picked up the razor he had flung aside and slashed his throat several times. The cuts nearly severed the windpipe and he dropped to the floor bleeding and gasping. A hurry call was sent to No. 7 police station, and the patrol took both husband and wife to the hospital after they had been hastily examined by Dr. Hertzog of No. 2120 Carson street. The wife had six cuts on her throat and several on her hands and arms. None of them are serious.

The couple have been in this country only a short time, coming here on April 28, and engaging rooms as brother and sister. On June 24 they were married and went to Mrs. King's to live. They appeared to be very happy and talked of soon commencing housekeeping.

What caused the trouble yesterday could not be ascertained, owing to the fact that the wife could speak very little English and was so excited as to be almost unable to talk.

At the hospital she said they had quarreled because she had found work in a saloon and her husband did not want her to work there. She said he came after her yesterday morning and took her to their room where he tried to persuade her not to return. She objected because they needed the money and he had not been able to secure paying work. She said that he then swore that he would kill her and then himself, and the battle began.

Karol was 28 years old and his wife is but 17 years, but a strong, well-built woman and to her strength she undoubtedly owes her life. Aside from the cuts, there are bruises on each side of her head as though she had been struck with a stick.

GEORGIA NEGRO LYNCHED.

Was Hanged to a Tree and Body Riddled With Bullets.

MONTICELLO, GA., Aug. 31.—John Brown, a negro who attempted to assault Miss Johnnie Chaffin, a 12-year-old white girl, near Monticello, yesterday, was lynched early this morning by a small posse of men. Brown was given a preliminary hearing and ordered sent here for safe keeping.

When seven miles from town the deputy having Brown in charge was surrounded by a posse who demanded the prisoner. The deputy was powerless and the men carried the negro into the woods, hanged him to a tree and riddled his body with bullets.

GOBIN'S ACTION IS CONDEMNED IN PUBLIC MEETING

Stone Is Asked to Deny Protection to Non-Union Men.

SPECIAL POLICEMAN SET UPON AND BEATEN

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Girardville, Pa., Aug. 34.—A public indignation meeting of 1,500 citizens was held in the Girard opera house this afternoon to condemn the action of Gen. Gobin in issuing the "shoot to kill orders," and also to ask Gov. Stone to keep his promise not to allow the militia to escort non-union men to and from work.

John Clark of Ashland, Condon Seley of Pottsville, S. Kramer, Frackville; James Huskin, Lost Creek; Isaac Morgan, Mahanoy Plane; A. Dixon, Raven Run, and M. A. Kilker, H. B. McGinnis, E. J. McGinnis and William Eagan of this city were appointed a committee to draft a set of resolutions, imploring the governor to act, and to call a special session of the legislature to remedy the existing conditions. Another meeting will be called for September 8, to hear the reply of the governor.

Action in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Aug. 31.—The Central Labor union of Philadelphia today unanimously adopted a resolution denouncing Gen. Gobin for issuing an order calling on his men to shoot strikers if they resist the authority of the troops. The resolutions set forth that it is illegal for the general to issue an order to "Kill citizens of Pennsylvania who are guaranteed a trial by jury for any offense they may commit." The resolutions request Gov. Stone to revoke the commission of Gen. Gobin and the civil authorities are asked to have the general indicted and tried for "threatening the lives of citizens of the state."

The secretary of the union was instructed to send a letter of protest to Gov. Stone for the alleged breaking of a promise that he is said to have made to the three anthracite district presidents to the effect that he would not permit the state troops to escort non-union men to and from the mines. It is claimed that the governor made this promise to Presidents Nicholls, Duffy and Fahey on the occasion of their visit to Harrisburg in May.

Assaults on Workers.

WILKESBARRE, PA., Aug. 31.—Jacob Smith, a coal and iron policeman in the employ of the Kingston Coal Company, was held up by two unknown men today while he was on his way to one of the collieries to relieve another officer. His assailants took his revolver away from him and then gave him a severe beating.

TAMAQUA, PA., Aug. 31.—While John and Albert Kutzek, non-union men, were leaving the St. Michael's Hungarian church at Lansford today, they were attacked by a number of foreigners and were compelled to return to the church for safety. After remaining there for some hours they succeeded in making their escape.

This afternoon the officials of the switchback railroad notified Mai. Gearhart that strikers were interfering with their passengers at Summit Hill. Company E of the Twelfth regiment was sent to the scene and succeeded in restoring order.

Tomorrow morning a large force of soldiers will patrol the valley and protect non-union men while on their way to work.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 31.—(Special.)—Polanders in large numbers are being sent from here to the anthracite regions about Scranton to take the places of the strikers. A large number were sent to Scranton last night and more will follow. An agent of the operators named Steneweitz has been here for some time securing men, but was not discovered by the union men, although a strict watch has been kept for such agents.

PLATT SEES THE END.

Says the Strike Will Be Settled Before Campaign Sets In and Will Not Be an Issue.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(Special.)—Senator Thomas C. Platt declared positively late tonight that the coal strike would be settled within the next two weeks. The question was brought up by a query as to now the Republicans intend to treat the strike in their state platform.

"It will not be an issue in the campaign," Senator Platt replied. "It will be settled within a week. There will be no coal sold at $10 a ton this winter. It will surely be settled within a week, or, at the longest, within two weeks from this time."

Senator Platt declined to tell why he was so confident that the strike was nearing its end.

NOT AGAINST PENROSE.

Connell Declares He Will Not Be Candidate for Senator While Incumbent Is in the Field.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 31.—(Special.)—"Well, my friends have kindly offered their help in the event I cared to try for the senate. It is doubtful whether I shall enter the race. Senator Penrose is a good and able man. Should circumstances be such as to cause him to drop out, I might possibly enter the field. If Penrose stays in, it is not my present intention to oppose him."

In these words Mr. Connell disposed of the rumors that he would be a candidate for Senator Penrose's seat.

New York Woman Kills Herself and Pet Cat Fights for Her Corpse.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—(Special.)—On the second anniversary of the death of her husband, Mrs. Isabella Fields, 42 years old, committed suicide Saturday night by inhaling gas in her apartments. Those who knew her say she had before threatened to take her life, as she could not live without her husband. A pet cat fiercely fought the policeman and the ambulance surgeon when they attempted to remove the body.

Mrs. Fields leaves a brother, John D. Thomas of 210 Goodrich street, Allegheny.

LOUD DETONATIONS AND CLOUDS OF DUST

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Roseau, Dominica, B. W. I., Aug. 31.—Thick mist enveloped Roseau yesterday and was taken as it approached for a rainstorm. The dust is still falling, although lightly; but during the night of the 30th the quantity of dust which fell here was greater than upon any previous occasion since the first eruption of Mont Pelee.

At nightfall of the 30th a dark, cone-shaped cloud, emitting electric flashes, rose in the south, but it was gradually obscured by the mist caused by the falling ashes. Rumbling noises and a few detonations were heard during the night of the 30th.

The people here are quiet. No news has yet reached here from Martinique.

POINTE-A-PITRE, ISLAND OF GUADELOUPE, Aug. 31.—This entire port has been covered with a cloud of fine dust since 5 o'clock this morning and the populace is panic-stricken. Fine ashes are falling continually in a slight drizzle. Semi-darkness is over the sea and the ships in the harbor seem to be enveloped in a cloud of smoke.

Entire Island Covered.

Advices from Basse Terre (island of Guadeloupe) assert that since daybreak today the entire island has been covered with a cloud of dust coming from the southeast, the direction of the island of Martinique. The population of Basse Terre is greatly alarmed.

ST. JOHN, ANTIGUA, B. W. I., Aug. 31.—Many very loud detonations were heard here from 9 o'clock last night to midnight.

BASSE TERRE, ST. KITTS, B. W. I., Aug. 31.—A series of loud reports was heard here last night from 7 until 9:45 o'clock.

The foregoing dispatches are from widely scattered islands of the Lesser Antilles, but all northward from Martinique, indicating that the disturbance, wherever it happened must have been terrific. Efforts made to communicate by cable direct with the island of Martinique have proved unsuccessful. Telegraphic communication with that island from New York is still interrupted.

A severe eruption of Mont Pelee, Martinique, was reported to have occurred at noon August 21. This report was brought to Castries, island of St. Lucia, by officers of the French steamship Dahomey. This eruption was followed by total darkness five miles away from the volcano.

A dispatch received from St. Thomas, D. W. I., August 29, said that between 10 o'clock in the morning and 3 in the afternoon of August 25, clouds of dust were seen in the direction of Mont Pelee from the island of Dominica. Detonations were heard and there were light showers of volcanic dust on the islands.

Laid to Mont Pelee.

This message was received from Dominica Tuesday, the 26th: "Since 2 p. m. today (Tuesday), prolonged rumbling noises in quick succession have been heard from the southward. There is every indication that Mont Pelee is in violent eruption."

A dispatch from Paris, dated August 28, said the latest dispatches received at the ministry of the colonies from Fort de France, island of Martinique, were dated Monday, August 25. They made no mention of the reported eruption of Mont Pelee. The Paris dispatch said also that the cables to Martinique, both north and south, continued to be interrupted.

STEERING CLEAR OF THE PRESIDENCY

New York Republicans Will Indorse Roosevelt's Measures Without Booming His Candidacy.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Republican friends of President Roosevelt in this state, who have been urging the insertion in the Republican state platform of a specific declaration in favor of his nomination for the presidency in 1904, will be disappointed. The view of Gov. Odell, that the next national campaign should not be made prominent in the battle for the control of the state this year, and that the platform should confine itself to a general indorsement of President Roosevelt's administration, has prevailed.

The platform will indorse the president's stand in favor of reciprocity with Cuba and will approve, at least, to some extent, his plan for dealing with trusts.

"President Roosevelt's administration will be indorsed in the state platform but the resolutions will not advocate his nomination in 1904," Senator Platt said tonight at Manhattan Beach. "There will be some allusion to the president's view of trusts in the platform, but how far it will go I am not now prepared to say. It may not go as far as the president has gone. The platform will approve the president's advocacy of giving reciprocity to Cuba."

LIGHT ON A SUICIDE.

Edward P. Remington Probably Discovers Why His Brother Killed Himself at Newport.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 31.—(Special.)—Edward P. Remington, brother of Robert Remington, who recently committed suicide here, will arrive at Newport this week to settle up the affairs of the deceased man, and to inquire further into the matter of his brothers' death.

Since Mr. Remington came to Newport many statements have been made that seem to indicate that Mr. Remington was not aware of his brother's reasons for taking his own life, but it was understood that he found in his brother's effects here all the light he needed. Whether this evidence was in a note left by the dead man for his brother, or whether it was his brother's general correspondence, is not known.

PLUCKY FARMER AND NERVY THIEF EXCHANGE SHOTS

Blazed Away at Each Other in Middle of Road Yesterday Morning.

SEVERAL HOMES LOOTED

Carnegie Borough and Stowe Township Houses Broken Into by Daring Thieves and Valuable Silverware Stolen.

In the middle of the road in Stowe township William Cochran, a prosperous farmer, and a burglar who had been looting houses in that vicinity, shot at one another early yesterday morning until both had emptied their revolvers. Neither of them was hurt. The burglar escaped while Cochran hurried to his house to reload.

Cochran was asleep, when he heard some one prowling about his house. He grabbed his revolver and hurried downstairs, but the prowler proved to have a very sensitive ear. He heard Cochran get up, and broke through a window by means of which he had forced entry into the house. Cochran, in his night clothing, followed the fellow and fired twice before he reached the gate.

The burglar ran out into the road and sped towards Carnegie. When about 100 yards off he turned quickly about and fired at the farmer. The shooting awakened the neighboring farmers, but by the time they examined their own houses the burglar escaped. He got $24 in Cochran's house, and missed a gold watch.

He is believed to have been the same person who, a few hours earlier, broke into the home of Mrs. Speer, near the Clever school. Mrs. Speer and her two sons, Garnet and Elmer, live together. The burglar picked the lock and ransacked every portion of the house before the family awoke. Two gold watches are missing, and a small sum of money. The burglar wound up his prowling in the spring house by eating everything that proved apetizing.

About the same hour the house of Joseph H. Hammil, 302 Third street, Carnegie, was ransacked. Altogether, Mr. Hammil's loss by this visit amounts to nearly $1,000, and includes $65 in bills, some loose change, a gold watch and chain valued at $224, and several valuable pieces of silverware. The watch was a gift to Hammil from the pastor of St. Luke's Catholic church of that place. The burglars—it is believed there was more than one—ransacked every portion of the house, downstairs and upstairs. Papers pulled from chests and a desk were found lying in the yard.

The burglars then went to the home of Dr. Thomas Minihan, two doors above. They got no further than the kitchen, however, but from the appearance of this portion of the house when Mrs. Minihan reached it, they had no desire to go further. They ate grapes and scattered the skins over the floor, and appeared to have enjoyed themselves hugely. The wonder is that they did not try to force their way into the house between that of Hammil and Minihan. The chief of police of Carnegie lives here, but he was not disturbed.

PENNYPACKER TO GET SUPPORT OF HASTINGS

Former Governor Will Take Active Part in Campaign for Republican Success.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BELLEFONTE, PA., Aug. 31.—Former Gov. Hastings, who, with Mrs. Hastings, arrived in New York Saturday from Europe, is expected home tomorrow, and when it is anticipated by the Republican campaign managers that as soon as Mr. Hastings takes a brief rest and gets a line on his business interests, he will devote considerable time to the campaign, in the interest of Pennypacker's election.

Mr. Hasting's own declaration that he was for Pennypacker prior to the state convention is the main thing on which the managers are building hope for his assistance. There is no doubt, however, but that Mr. Hastings will take a very active part in the campaign in this county in the interest of the entire Republican ticket.

In county politics the candidates of both parties have set the pot a boiling. During last week the Democratic county committee held a meeting here, but with the exception of making a few preliminary plans for running the campaign, little of importance was done. It was the expectation to make a nomination for coroner to fill out the ticket, but not being able to select a suitable candidate the matter was held over until the first week in October.

More than the usual interest is being taken in the legislative fight, and the contest promises to be so close that the winners will not be known until the votes are counted. November 4. J. H. Wetzel and J. W. Kipler, the Democratic candidates, have already started their individual campaigning, while J. K. Schoonover and J. B. Strohm, the Republican nominees, are not far behind in their work. Both sides are building largely on the head of the state ticket, as well as the congressional and senatorial fights to pull them through.

Up to this time the appointment as deputy revenue collector to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. John F. Harter, has not been made, notwithstanding there is a host of applicants for the place, and it is the prevailing belief that the appointment will not be made until after the election.

M'CREARY SAYS BUTLER FAVORS GEORGE F. HUFF

He Claims the Majority of the Republicans Are Not for Showalter.

DEFENDS THE NEW RULES

Declares That If the Congressman Is an Independent Candidate, He Will Cause the Defeat of the Judicial and Legislature Tickets.

Warren W. McCreary of Butler is one of the Republican leaders in his county, who thinks that Col. George F. Huff of Greensburg should have the congressional nomination in the Twenty-second district. Mr. McCreary is of the opinion that Congressman Joseph Showalter is not entitled to the nomination and should agree to enter a conference under the rules adopted in Pittsburgh last week.

"Showalter cannot [illegible]antiate his claim that the rules [illegible]ot legally adopted," said McCreary. "[illegible] fact that the congressman came to [illegible]urgh and was a party to the holding [illegible] meeting when the new district [illegible]s made shows that he did not th[illegible]nk that the Butler committee was without power to act. The committee was regularly named and instructed to meet with a similar body from Westmoreland. There was no time limit placed on its life and naturally it was in existence until the business for which it was created was transacted.

Says Rule Is a Good One.

"Had that conference adopted a rule satisfactory to Showalter, he would not have raised the question of the legality of the Butler committee. I talked with him the day the committee met. He then said that he did not care for another term in congress, as it would pay him better to attend to his business enterprises. I remarked that the graceful thing for him to do would be to retire and give the nomination to Huff.

"The rule adopted is a fair one and perfectly satisfactory to the regular Republicans of our county. We feel that we are not entitled to the congressman and think that Showalter has been well cared for. He was in the senate for one term and is serving his third term in congress.

"If Showalter attempts to make an independent fight for congress he will defeat the ticket in Butler, and Col. Huff will be elected with ease. The friends of Judge John M. Greer's have no use for Showalter. He was friendly to the candidacy of Greer until James Moore and others brought out Dr. Pillow as a candidate for congressman against him. In order to get Pillow out of the way, Showalter agreed with Moore and others that he would keep hands off the judicial fight.

Owes Much to Greer.

"If there is a man in Butler county who owes anything politically to Judge Greer that man is Showalter. If he runs as an independent candidate for congress he will cause the defeat of the candidates for judge and legislature. These nominees have always been insurgents, and now they are urging the necessity of party regularity. The men who have always been regular feel that they have a perfect right to select their candidates this fall."

If Showalter does not agree to enter a congressional conference by next Saturday, Chairman M. S. Quay is authorized under the district rules to call a conference. In case Showalter still refuses to participate under the rule that gives Huff eight votes to his three, it is a little uncertain how the nomination can be made. The candidates select their own delegates, and it is a question whether the Butler organization would have a right to name men to represent that county and go through the formality of nominating Col. Huff. The leaders of both counties are not ready to give an opinion on this point.

NO CERTAINTY OF A HARMONY DEAL

STRING TO AGREEMENT FOR UNIFORM WINDOW GLASS START.

Independent Glass Company Will Submit to No Outside Dictation in Its Affairs and the Other Crowd Insists on Its Changing Its Organization.

There is a long and fragile string attached to the reported harmony deal, as supposed to have been arranged at a recent conference of all window glass interests at the Chittenden hotel in Columbus, O. The only terms arrived at were that the start of factories was to be postponed till October 1, but this, a representative of the Independent Glass Company, which was the free-lance in the market last fire, declared last night is in no sense binding unless certain other conditions are complied with. What the conditions are he would not say.

The situation in a nutshell is that the harmony deal is no more certain of consummation than it was a month ago. Representatives of some of the rival interests and some of the jobbers have been clamoring to have one of the leading officials of the Independent Glass Company removed. The Independent company should have its postponed annual meeting, at which a plan for reorganization will be presented by President C. P. Cole, some time before the 15th of this month. According to the terms of adjournment taken at Atlantic City last month, this meeting should be held about the 12th. The postponement was to give time for the harmony pow-wow, which took place at Columbus, but this seems to have fallen much short of its purpose.

Representatives of some of the interests declare that the harmony deal is practically secured, at least so far as duration of the factory fire is concerned, and that within the month a new agreement will be drawn by the three big interests which will fix minimum prices. It is said, however, that this can only be a gentlemen's agreement, and susceptible to disruption at any time. There are hints that the next general conference will enter into a plan for a general consolidation of all the interests except the few independents outside of the three present combines, but none of the leading officials in interest will authenticate this. Some of them say, however, that there can be no complete harmony with simply a gentlemen's agreement to hold it.

Representatives of the American Window Glass Company spoken to yesterday expressed confidence that a harmony deal will be concluded, although they will not be specific as to its character. It is said that a satisfactory readjustment of the organization of the Independent Glass Company declared last night that they will continue to conduct their own affairs, and will submit to no suggestions as to changes in the management from the outside. They do not deny that there will be changes, but they will not discuss them.

Some of the independent concerns outside of the three big combines are arranging for a start within a few days. These plants have a pot capacity of over 200, and most of them work under the scale of the Denny, or the newer organization of workers. It is said that these and any other plants that are ready to start are being allowed to do so by the Denny organization on condition that the wage at the close of last fire be paid, together with a 15 per cent advance to the cutters, this scale being subject to revision on the lines of the scale settlement of the Burns, or parent, organization, to be made later.

The Independent Glass Company had fires started in five or six of the factories which are members of its organization for a start today, but the fires were put out when the 30-day truce was declared at Atlantic City. At any rate, there is little likelihood of much glass manufacture before October 1. The Federation Window Glass Company is said to be ready to comply with its end of the proposed harmony deal by holding under a forfeiture agreement of $300 a pot over 700 pots.

PRESIDENT SPENT SUNDAY ON FARM

ROOSEVELT PASSED QUIET DAY IN VERMONT.

Midnight Demonstration in Honor of the Chief Magistrate Upon Arrival at the Home of Secretary Shaw—Congressman Joseph C. Sibley Joins the Party.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

BURLINGTON, VT., Aug. 31.—After having spent the night at the country residence of Secretary Shaw on Lake Champlain, President Roosevelt today was conveyed in the steam yacht Elfreda to the Shelburne farms, the home of Dr. W. Seward Webb, where he will remain over night.

His arrival at Thompsons Point late last night was made the occasion for a great demonstration, fully 1,000 people having gathered to extent him a fitting welcome. There was an elaborate display of red light and fireworks, the latter including some beautiful set pieces, while numerous small craft on the lake, which had been gathered together especially for the event, tooted their whistles, fired salutes and in other ways shared in the tumultuous reception.

Ascending the steps of the Shaw residence, the president in a brief address thanked the assemblage for having turned out in such numbers to greet him. At the conclusion of his remarks he was vociferously cheered.

Those of the party who did not accompany the president to Thompsons Point were today entertained by a committee of 100, representing the business men of Burlington. A special steamer had been chartered and they were taken for a 50-mile sail on Lake Champlain. After a brief stop at Valcours, to take on Congressman Joseph C. Sibley, who wished to join in the entertainment of the visitors, the boat continued up the lake to Bluff Point, N. Y., landing at the Cook of the Champlain hotel, where luncheon was served, following which a drive was taken around the grounds.

On their return here about 4 o'clock the party was given a trolley ride about the city and out to Ft. Ethan Allen, several miles distant. Tomorrow morning the president will return to Burlington and at 10 o'clock continue his journey.

HOMEWOOD CARNIVAL OPENS THIS EVENING

The Booths Are Completed and the Grounds Are Ready for the Crowd.

A large crowd gathered last night at the grounds of the Homewood board of trade in Kelly street, to view the finished results of the elaborate preparations that have been made for the Mardi Gras and carnival which is scheduled for its opening this evening. The advertising, amusement and refreshment booths, which occupy the greater portion of the great area of the grounds, were all completed with the exception of the necessary bunting for decorative purposes. Innumerable incandescent lights illuminated the grounds splendidly last night, but this evening the illuminations will be appreciably bettered by the addition of a dozen arcs which are to be put in today.

The grand street pageant, which will be the opening feature of the show, will take part in the Labor Day parade, representing a "Congress of all Nations," featuring principally those types common in the United States—Indians, cowboys and every other distinctive racial feature to be found that may be readily portrayed."

Each day's program has been carefully prepared and will be carried out in its entirety, thus assuring the absence of the monotony of repetition. A handsome souvenir program has been issued, giving in detail the program of each day and a list of the various attractions offered for the amusement of those who attend.

GRIMES' PARTY DID NOT CAUSE A SENSATION

Citizens Candidates Say the Latest Machine Scheme Will Make Them Votes.

SOUTH SIDE WATER ISSUE

Organization Blundered in Putting Grimes at the Head of the "Ballot Reform" Party—Flinn Mixing in Union Party State Convention.

The launching of the Grimes Water Company party under the alias of the "Ballot Reform" party did not create the political sensation expected. The public generally accepted it as a scheme of the machine to help "avert the deluge."

It would not be surprising if the old organization leaders would discover that public sentiment is against the Grimes party and absndon the project. Every machine leader is pleading ignorance and some are even trying to show that James E. Grimes, president of the Chartiers Valley Water Company, has no connection with the old organization. This creates about as much amusement as the posing of Grimes as a ballot reformer. The whole game is looked upon as the best joke of the campaign and is not causing the least uneasiness among the Citizens. They can see how it will make votes for the fusion ticket. The candidacy of Judge S. W. Pennypacker will be greatly helped by the movement.

An Impolitic Move.

If the machine managers had planned to injure their ticket they could not have accomplished results by an easier method than the placing of James F. Grimes at the head of their new party. Grimes has a company that is supposed to furnish the people living on the south side of the Monongahela with water. Of late there have been countless complaints about the service and the water company has become an issue in the present fight. By selecting Grimes as its "Ballot Reform" manager, the machine takes on this new load. Its burdens were supposed to be sufficiently heavy before.

The organization has so far been able to any regularity, but the announcement of Grimes that his party would indorse the Democratic state ticket and the machine local candidates wipes out their plea. There are many Republicans who had intended to vote that ticket who will now cast their ballots for the Citizens candidates to make sure that they will help Pennypacker and the Browns. Just how the machine hopes to profit by a deal which will not bring grist to its mill is too difficult a problem for even some of the most ardent supporters of the old organization to solve.

Say It Is a State Fight.

One of the apologists of the machine says that Grimes has organized his party for the purpose of defeating the re-election of Boies Penrose for United States senator. It is claimed that the machine connection locally is but a side issue, and the Grimes party intends to operate principally throughout the state in the hope of electing members of the legislature.

It is claimed that prominent Philadelphians are back of Grimes and the money is being furnished by them. The plan is to put up legislative candidates in every county where there is a chance to secure fusion with the Democrats and independents.

There are some machine men who tell the truth, however, and they admit that the Grimes water party has been created to help the old organization. Its birth was made necessary because of a division of sentiment in the Union party about indorsing the machine ticket. All of the candidates could not have gotten in the Unionist column, so Grimes was given orders to begin reforming the ballot. It is said that the Unionists will now indorse a part of the machine ticket and offer indorsements to some of the candidates of the Citizens party. Speaking of the Union pary, there is a report going the rounds that ex-Senator William Flinn made out the slate of delegates to the Philadelphia convention.

Col. J. M. Guffey yesterday declined to discuss the Grimes water party. He has just returned from the east and wants to get a line on the situation before giving his opinion.

MISS OLIVE I. HODGES LEAVES TODAY FOR THE MISSION FIELD OF JAPAN.

Miss Olive I. Hodges.

Miss Olive I. Hodges, who is being entertained at the residence of the Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Wilbur in Bellevue, leaves this morning for the far east, whither she is being sent as a missionary by the Methodist Protestant Women's Foreign Missionary society of this city, to the station at Nagoya, Japan. Miss Hodges, who is a native of Morgantown, W. Va., was chosen some time ago by the missionary society and came to this city Saturday to receive her farewell from those whom she will represent among the heathen in the farawy kingdom. The term which the young missionary will spend in her field is six years, the first of which she will occupy in the acquirement of the language and the customs of the people among whom she will labor.

The missionary society directs schools in both Nagoya and Yokohama, and it is in these that the young lady will spend the major portion of her time. Miss Hodges is highly educated, cultured, and a very earnest worker in the cause of her faith. Before her selection to serve in the missionary field she was for several years a teacher in the public schools of Morgantown. Her route will be via Chicago to Vancouver, B. C. and thence by steamer across the Pacific to her final destination. She departs in company with four other missionaries who are to enter the same field.

The farewell meeting held for her in the Second Methodist Protestant church Saturday evening was attended by a large number of the young lady's friends and well-wishers, who expressed hopes for her success and safe return.

LABOR HOLIDAY WILL THROW THE COMMUNITY IDLE

Most of the Million People of District Will Watch Demonstration.

A PICTURESQUE PARADE

All Unions That Have Voted to Participate Will Turn Out Nearly All Members and the Others Will Be Fined— Division Officers and Aids.

Today is labor's holiday, and practically all industry in Pittsburgh will stand suspended. All mills of the Greater Pittsburgh community where the organized employes are recognized will be closed. Banks and most offices and stores will be closed.

The nearly 1,000,000 people of the community will turn their heads to watch the demonstration of the organized workingmen. A great parade, in which between 20,000 and 25,000 men will march and ride, will start from Water and Market streets at 10:30 o'clock in the morning. It is expected that it will be past 1 o'clock in the afternoon before the end of this column passes the reviewing stand in Schenley park. The route of this movement, as stated before, will be on Market street, to Fifth avenue, to Ross street, to Diamond street, to Forbes street and to the park.

Nearly all of the unions that will participate in the parade today held special meetings yesterday to make final arrangements for the event, in distribution of uniforms, badges and other regalia. The parade will be the most spectacular of the kind ever seen in Pittsburgh. Nearly all of the local organizations are vieing for the prize for the best appearance.

The prize will be a gold watch, valued at $60, and the consolation prize will be a pair of running shoes.

There is anticipation that some action will be taken by the assemblage at the park, in connection with the addresses that will be delivered there, in relation to the anthracite strike. The address of the principal speaker of the day, Thomas L. Lewis, national vice president of the United Workers of America may prove the signal for some action that may be of benefit to the strikers.

All of the unions which have voted to participate in the demonstration will turn out practically all members, having arranged to impose a fine of a day's pay and the cost of the marching uniform on all members not participating. The fine of a day's pay, especially in the building trades, will be for the double-time usually paid on a holiday.

STREET CAR SCHEDULES.

Changes to Accommodate Labor Day Parade—Traction Park Attractions.

After the big parade today traction officials expect a rush of many thousands of people to the parks. Gala day programs have been arranged at Calhoun, Kennywood, Oakwood and Southern. While the parade is in Fifth avenue cars will run east and west via Sixth avenue to and from Forbes street and Fifth avenue extension beyond the court house. When the parade swings into Forbes street all trolley cars that run on that street will be found running on Fifth avenue and Sixth avenue.

Extra cars will be put on all the park routes. A record-breaking crowd for Labor day is expected at Calhoun, where the big outing for the benefit of the East End Charity hospital will be held.

Kennywood is also expected to have enormous crowds. Dancing, concerts, sports, games, etc., will be there for the entertainment of everybody. The Homestead library band will give the concerts. At Oakwood the gala day program will be supplemented with a balloon ascension—her 501st—by Mlle. Zeno, at 2:30. The Second Brigade band will give the concerts. After her descent Mlle. Zeno will go to Southern park, where she will make another ascension at 6 o'clock, using her new balloon, Santos Dumont, from which Harry Hicks fell and was killed at Kingston Point, N. Y., Memorial day. Roceretо's band will play popular concert programs all day and evening.

NEW RECTOR PREACHED.

Rev. R. H. Edwards Comes to St. Paul's P. E. Church, Oakland.

Rev. R. H. Edwards of Wellsville, who has accepted a call to St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal church, Oakland, conducted the services in that church yesterday. In the course of his morning sermon he referred to his acceptance of the call, and expressed the hope that his relations in his new charge would be such as to result in much spiritual benefit for those concerned.

Mr. Edwards does not take charge of St. Paul's until the first Sunday in October. He is a former newspaper man, having been at one time on the staff of the Chicago Inter Ocean. At the close of the World's fair he entered McCormick Theological seminary and was graduated in 1900. He was licensed by the Presbyterian church, in which denomination he preached three years. Later he joined the Episcopal church and took a post-graduate course in theology. He was in charge of the Redeemer church, Cleveland, for some time, and later went to the Ascension church, Wellsville, O.

IN FORGIVENESS GOSPEL IS NEW

REV. DR. E. M. WOOD TAKES UP AN INTERESTING BIBLE QUESTION

"Is the Gospel Old or New" Was His Topic and He Pointed Out Wherein It Is the Consummation and Completion of What Preceded It.

The Rev. Dr. E. M. Wood, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, delivered an interesting sermon last evening on the topic, "Is the Gospel Old or New?" The sermon was a continuation of the series of discourses on the Bible, which Dr. Wood has been delivering for the past few weeks, and which have attracted wide attention, his church being crowded to the doors every Sunday evening.

"The words, New Testament," he said, "occur a number of times in Scriptural writings. It is mentioned frequently by the ablest interpreters of Bible literature. In what sense then is this particular gospel missive new? It is not that it had a new source. The Lord God is the giver of both the Old and New Testaments. He alone is the source from whence they came. This is the teaching of the prophets and of Paul the Apostle. Listen to this: 'God, who spake to our fathers, has spoken unto us by His Son.. Here we have a great missionary, a man of God, after God's heart, telling us this fact.

"The gospel is new in the matter of forgiveness. In looking forward to gospel times the prophets asked 'will the Lord be satisfied with thousands of offerings and rivers or oil?' God, however, no longer delights in sacrifice and burnt worship. The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit—'a broken and contrite heart, O God, thou wilt not despise.' No more smoking altars, no more perfumed incense rising from golden thurifers. Calvary is the altar where blood was shed for the remission of sin, and now God commandeth the entire world to repent and believe in the gospel. Herein is opened up a new and living way of approach to God, to God's throne, to the feet of God. What more could we wish?

"The gospel is new in its breadth of philanthropy. We must admit that that old system was narrow, chiefly seclusive and racial. Possibly this was necessary to prepare for the truth to come in after years. The flower and the fruit must each come in its season. What would the world have done with electricity 200 years ago? What would it have done with an automobile? The infinitely wise God gives out his secrets to the men and the age that are prepared to receive and take care of them. So, in Christ's day, He pushed back the limited horizon and made the world the field, and invited all the peoples of every clime to the king's banquet.

"Christianity is, then, more than a mere reform on the old institution which preceded it. It is not a new patch on an old garment. It is not new wine in old wineskins. It is in a measure the consummation and completion of what preceded it."

THE LAME MAN HEALED.

Sermon by the Rev. W. J. Russell, at the East End Christian Church.

The Rev. W. J. Russell, pastor of the East End Christian church, preached Sunday morning on "The Lame Man Healed," as recorded in the third chapter of Acts. In speaking of this poor man who was sitting at the beautiful gate, the speaker said in part:

"There were ten gates belonging to the temple, and it is not certain which one is referred to. But it was probably the magnificent doors of Corinthian brass described by Josephus, leading from the court of the gentiles into the court of the women, which was reserved for the ordinary religious offices of the Jewish people. The folds of this brazen gate were 75 feet high and 60 feet broad, and were covered with plates of gold and silver. The expensive architecture of ancient gates is seen in the enormous gates of Karnak, in Egypt; in the Propylaeon, at Athens; in modern times in the vast colonade of St. Peter's at Rome. Michael Angelo said of the splendid bronze doors of the baptistry at Florence, that they were fit to be the gates of paradise.

"It was to a door, which in magnificence was fit to symbolize the entrance into heaven, that the lame man was carried that he might be in the way of the charitable droppings of alms from those that went into the temple. Those who beg for a living know where to go. They are not found in front of a theater. But the church has been their favorite resort. They know that the tender-hearted are those that pray and worship God. Love of God always means love to man. Nine-tenths of all the money raised for benevolent purposes, and for the support of our charitable institutions, comes from the pockets of those who go up to the temple at the hour of prayer.

"There ought to be a door beautiful opening into every church and Sunday school. It may not be builded of Corinthian brass. There is better material. It is the door of beautiful and courteous welcome. Are you, beloved, opening for anybody this door beautiful?"

LAID CORNER STONE FOR OLD FOLKS' HOME

Ceremony at Mars Took Place in the Presence of Over 1,000 People Yesterday.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BUTLER, PA., Aug. 31.—The corner stone laying at St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Old Folks' home at Mars, Butler county, took place today in the presence of over 1,000 visitors from Allegheny, Pittsburgh, Zelienople, Butler and intermediate points. In the forenoon addresses were made by the Rev. C. F. W. Brecht of Chicora, in English, and by the Rev. E. Cronenwett of Butler, in German.

The corner stone was laid by the Rev. H. J. Schuh of Allegheny, president of the board of directors of the home, assisted by the Rev. E. Cronenwett of Butler, and the Rev. F. W. Almendinger of Mars. Addresses were made by the Rev. A. R. Kuldel of Allegheny and the Rev. H. J. Schuh.

The home is to take the place of the St. John's home at Woods Run, Allegheny, and will have a capacity for 50 inmates. This building is to be followed by another building for the temporary care of orphans, who are to be subsequently placed in suitable families, as the opportunity may offer. Additional buildings on the cottage plan will be erected as the necessity requires.

Union Services Were Successful.

The last of the series of union church services held in Braddock during the summer months, under the auspices of the Braddock Ministerial association, was held last evening in the Parker Avenue United Presbyterian church, of which the Rev. George E. Hawes is pastor. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. N. H. Holmes, D. D., pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church. These union services have been largely attended and gratifying to the ministerial association as an experiment.

PLANTS CLOSED DOWN.

Coke Shortage Causes Suspensions in Mahoning Valley.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 31.—(Special.)—The shortage of coke caused the closing down of the Bessemer plant of the Crucible Iron and Steel Company last night. It will be closed for at least a week. The shortage of coke has caused the supply of pig iron to be shut off.

The Lowellville furnace of the Ohio Iron and Steel Company has been banked. The operators hope that the declination of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad to favor the Mahoning valley in the distribution of coke will relieve the situation here.

NO MISTAKE IN THE HOLIDAYS OF AMERICANS

Rev. Dr. H. D. Lindsay Discusses Pleasant Thoughts for Labor Day.

SAYS IT IS NOT A CLASS DAY

Happiness and Success Can Come Only Through Labor — Character Develops Through Work—Live and Labor the Highest Philosophy.

In the North Presbyterian church last night the Rev. Dr. H. D. Lindsay, pastor, preached on "Pleasant Thoughts for Labor Day," his text being, "If any will not work, neither let him eat." Thess. 3:10.

"This text disposes in a single sentence," said Dr. Lindsay, "of the tramp who hates work and water and of the lazy millionaire who lives for pleasure alone; at the same time it places the approval of Holy Writ upon all honest toil which goes to the making of the man, the community, the nation. Americans have made no mistake in the days they have appointed as holidays. Each one stands for a great principle in religious, national and social life. Labor Day is not a class day. It has its serious meaning for all. If ours is a land of happiness and homes, of noble manliness and womanly loveliness; if our country is becoming the big brother among the nations in whom the oppressed peoples of earth hail a redeemer, it is because the worker is beginning to have a place and an influence such as can come from neither lineage nor money.

"Happiness comes through labor. Not a mere chase after happiness which is often fruitless, but 'Raise the stone and thou shalt find me; clear the wood and there am I.' Success comes through labor. Not merely the cheap success of money, but the finding of higher ideals as well. Agassiz said when approached with a business proposition, 'I have no time to make money,' but he found success. President Roosevelt has finely said: 'They who do not need to work for themselves or their families have in that very fact a divine call to labor for their fellow men.' Browning brings his sheaf of song and lays it at the feet of the worker thus:

I will search for what never was found,
For the height and the light and the glow
Of impossible things I am bound,
For glory comes so.

If I miss them at least there's the bliss,
Which within me is silently wrought,
I am nobler and better by this
Oh soul that I sought.

"Character develops through work. Deterioration is a great law of nature in things material, mental and spiritual. Effort alone will overcome this tendency. This I conceive is the highest philosophy—live and labor with the tools you can use. Make the most of your opportunities and your powers. Always remember God's claim on all that you are and have, and always remember the other man."

NEW HILLTOP CHURCH.

Corner Stone of the First German United Evangelical Protestant Church Laid.

The corner stone of the First German United Evangelical Protestant church was laid yesterday afternoon with appropriate ceremonies. The new church is to be erected at the corner of Shaler and Rutledge streets, Duquesne Heights, and when completed will cost about $7,000.

About 400 people heard the welcoming address of the Rev. J. L. Braun, pastor of the church, which was followed by an addressed by the Rev. Phillip Wittich of Mt. Washington, who spoke of the feeling of pride and joy of the young congregation that inside of two years after its organization had made such headway.

The Rev. Harry M. Chalfant, pastor of the Duquesne Heights Methodist Episcopal church, congratulated the congregation and said the building of the church at that spot would increase the value of the surrounding property to a great extent.

An excellent musical program was rendered by the Duquesne Heights and the West End German Protestant church choirs, and by the Duquesne Heights and McKees Rocks Mannerchor societies.

The congregation has a membership of 66, and was organized on June 17, 1900. The new church is to be a two-story frame structure, with a steeple, and will be ready for occupancy in about two months. John Dillon, Sr., is president of the congregation, and the trustees are Louis Foerster, George C. Schindehutte, William Schur, Frank Traa, John Meyer, Valentine Stern, Henry Eichler, John Haas, Charles Volbers, Louis Ohlinger, Philip Tritsch and Frederick Miller.

The Old Reformed Church at Brush Creek.

IRWIN, PA., Aug. 31.—(Special.)—Fully 2,000 people yesterday attended the annual reunion at old Brush Creek church, near here. It was like a huge family basket picnic of descendants of the pioneers of this part of the state, who worshiped on the spot only seven years after the birth of this republic.

The Rev. Thomas S. Lend of the congregation made an address on the history of the congregation and George H. Hugus followed with a talk on the general history of this section.

Brush Creek church has a history that few churches have in Western Pennsylvania. In 1782 there were a half dozen pioneer families in the settlement and religious services were held in their log cabins. In 1783 a German missionary from Philadelphia, the Rev. J. W. Weber, went among these few people. He organized a church and later Dr. David Marchand, a native of Switzerland, advised the building of a school. A church was erected in 1784 of logs. This building was burned by the Indians. In 1797 another church was built. In 1815 the brick church was built, just as it stands today.

A NEW CAMPAIGN AGAINST VICE IS NOW PLANNED

Those Who Rent Houses for Immoral Purposes Are to Be Prosecuted.

POLICE HAVE EVIDENCE

The Speakeasies, With a Few Exceptions, Were Closed Yesterday. Thirsty Patrons Sought Their Sunday Drinks in Vain.

The police are preparing to make an attack on another class of vice. Persons who have been renting houses and letting the rooms to women for immoral purposes will soon be in the toils of the police. Superintendent of Police McAleese and City Attorney T. D. Carnahan have been at work preparing the evidence in these cases and on Tuesday informations will be made for the arrests of at least 11 men who have been carrying on this business.

Since Superintendent McAleese declared that he would "either clean up the city or get out" there have been a number of complaints lodged with him about these houses, where rooms are rented to women. Some of the houses are located in the respectable districts of the city and are most annoying to the residents. In fact they are distributed all over Pittsburgh. Several of these places are in the East End and quite a number are located in Oakland.

When Superintendent McAleese returned from his Lawrence county farm he decided to do away with these places. As it was most difficult to get sufficient evidence to make an inforation against these men he was compelled to work slowly. Through the aid of his officers he has succeeded in gathering the necessary evidence and the informations will follow Tuesday. The men will be charged with conducting disorderly houses and will be committed to jail for that offense. The informations will be made before Police Magistrate D. J. McGarey.

The speakeasies throughout Pittsburgh, with a few exceptions, were closed yesterday. The establishments that have had unrestricted sway have suspended operations. The well-known resorts in Third avenue, which have not been bothered for three years, were closed tightly. There were several hundred persons congregated in Third avenue yesterday expecting to obtain some liquid refreshments, but a careful watch was placed in this avenue and no violations were reported.

Most of the tenants of these establishments have left the city temporarily. A servant has been left behind to care for the property. The tenants have been unable to dispose of their leases and are holding them at a heavy expense.

Along Forbes street in the Soho district there were a number of speakeasies in operation. These places are patronized by foreigners. In Diamond alley just below Wood street a speakeasy was in operation.

It is Superintendent McAleese's intention to close these places gradually. He is steadily gathering information against all that his officers report to him and when there is sufficient evidence obtained to make an information against them, he orders the arrest made.

The nearest thing to a certain Cough Cure, is Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant; and it is deceptively cheap; it takes so little of it to do the work.

BLACK CAT SLEPT UNDER THE ENGINE.

STEUBENVILLE DEPOT, O., Aug. 31.—(Special.)—The superstitions and predictions of railroad employes for an early wreck for engine 7606 came true today when the engine ran into the rear of another engine on the Cleveland & Pittsburgh railroad track east of Mingo. Both engines were wrecked and sent to the shops. The enginemen escaped by jumping. Engine 7606 had just come from Wellsville shops, where, when a gooseneck connection was made between the tank and engine, a wreck was predicted. Last night a black cat slept under this engine and the engineer predicted a wreck before the day was over.

MONARCHS HUG AND PART

King Victor Emmanuel Leaves Germany for His Home in Italy—Display of Popular Enthusiasm.

POTSDAM, PRUSSIA, Aug. 31.—King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, who has been visiting Emperor William, started for home today. The king and the emperor drove together to the Wild park station. Here the leavetakings of the monarchs was most cordial, and they embraced each other repeatedly.

Crown Price Frederick William, Prince William Eitel-Frederick and Count von Buelow, the imperial chancellor, were on the station platform to bid farewell to the king of Italy, and a large crowd of people cheered the departing guest. The king stood at a window of the railroad carriage, waving his hand to the emperor as long as the train was in sight.

I had been troubled with the stomach for about five years. After taking Ripans Tabules I found great relief and now I have a dozen of my friends taking them. There is not any medicine to compare with them. I have stopped going to the doctor and whenever I feel bad I just buy a box of Ripans Tabules.

Good Reason for Holiday.

With good weather the Labor Day demonstration today will greatly exceed all previous efforts in Pittsburgh. It is fitting that this should be so. Labor in Pittsburgh is enjoying unparalleled peace and prosperity. In the history of this region there has never been a time when labor was more fully employed, better paid, or more free from disputes with employing capital. In fact, there has never been anywhere a nearer approach to ideal conditions. There is ample reason for labor to celebrate—to make a holiday full of enthusiasm and good cheer.

Exposition Season.

Greater Pittsburgh's greater exposition will open Wednesday evening with brightest prospects for its most successful season. It will present more attractive features than ever before and there is every reason to believe will draw more visitors, particularly from out of town. Our neighbors always enjoy the show at the Point, and the opportunity to get into the big town it represents. To them the shop windows and busy life of the streets are no less entertaining than the more formal exhibits in the exposition buildings. The music of the famous bands is no more entrancing than the business attended to outside. The exposition season, to the rich, populace region that surrounds Pittsburgh, is an annual carnival of trade with a setting of sweet sounds, bright lights and instructive exhibits.

Our Trade With Canada.

Canada's largest patron after England is the United States. We bought $71,196,505 worth of products from the Dominion in that country's last fiscal year. England in the same time bought $109,348,245 worth. All the rest of the world paid Canada the beggarly pittance of $15,475,013. On the other hand, while Canada sold $22,676,727 more of her products to Great Britain than to all the rest of the world, including the United States, she bought from the United States $38,828,417 worth more than from all the rest of the world, including Great Britain. Canada's purchases from the United States were valued at $120,809,956 and from all other sources $81,981,539. Little wonder therefore that Canadian statesmen are growing anxious for reciprocal trade relations with the United States. Canada has been endeavoring to build up trade with Britain and to curtail it with the United States by giving Britain preferential tariff rates, but the advantage nevertheless remains with the United States, Canada's natural market and natural source of supply.

For the Greater Pittsburgh.

Another effort will be made during the coming session of the state legislature to attain the Greater Pittsburgh as a municipal entity. This is to be done by passing an act permitting the consolidation of cities and boroughs upon terms that are fair to each. At least, one such bill is being drawn by Attorney W. B. Rodgers.

There can be no valid objection to such legislation, nor can there be any reasonable doubt that it will be to the advantage of all the cities and boroughs of Allegheny county to become one Pittsburgh. All thoughtful citizens have long been of this opinion, but the desired end has been postponed by reason of the opposition of certain self-seeking politicians and the efforts of others of the same class to obtain special benefits for themselves or their following. Legislation has been proposed that was manifestly unfair and bills have been defeated by means open to severe censure.

Now the time is certainly ripe for impartial measures and that unification of a vast industrial community that will promote the good of every part. The Greater Pittsburgh contains three-quarters of a million of population. Its place in finance is clearly indicated by bank clearings that are fifth in the list. The tonnage it originates is the largest in the world. Its postal business, when consolidated, will rank with its bank clearings. All of its material interests will be advanced by the statistical prestige to be obtained by union, while its affairs may be administered more economically and effectively by one than by a multitude of municipal systems.

Unjust Resolutions.

In the resolutions adopted by the Central Labor union of Philadelphia, denouncing Gen. Gobin, several important things are overlooked. The right of trial by jury is declared in the constitution, it is true, but in that same instrument is the warrant for Gen. Gobin's order to shoot any man that makes a murderous attack upon the troops. Hurling a stone with murderous intent is neither better nor worse than shooting with the same purpose. Any township constable has the right to shoot a man who makes a murderous attack upon him while engaged in the discharge of his duty to make arrests or preserve order. Every private citizen has the right to shoot in self-defense. Gen. Gobin's soldiers are on duty and the general's order is simply a public warning that they cannot be made targets for stone throwing with impunity.

Another thing overlooked by the resolutions is the right of every peaceful citizen of the state to the protection of the law against unprovoked assault. The law is impartial. It recognizes neither union nor non-union. It protects both alike. If the non-union workmen in the anthracite region banded themselves together to attack or abuse the union workmen, Gen. Gobin's troops would protect the union men just as readily as they protect the non-union men when the conditions are reversed. It seems odd that these facts are not universally recognized, but that they are not has appeared several times during the course of the anthracite strike.

Apparently the Philadelphia Central union holds the opinion that a striking workman has a legal right to assault a non-union man who takes his place. Apparently, also, it believes that heaping opprobrious epithets—and rocks—upon the state troops is no crime. Yet we venture to state no member of that union would feel it was right for any one to give that sort of treatment to him, nor would it be. What is right for one is right for another, and Gen. Gobin's order is well within the law.

John Bull and Monroeism.

While there is a disposition in one or two old-style publications in England to construe President Roosevelt's enunciation of the Monroe doctrine as a wicked American effort to twist the lion's tail for the purpose of currying favor with the American masses, the general sentiment of the people of the right little, tight little island is to view the Monroe doctrine in a friendly spirit and to even add to it in supreme self-satisfaction. John Bull has bitten off fully as much as he can masticate at the moment, or for some time to come, and it is with some pleasure that he contemplates the certainty that while he has his hands full no rival can snatch a slice of South American territory. He considers the American continent safe from the wicked European land grabbers because of the determination of Cousin Jonathan to keep it so, and for this he feels thankful. It also makes him regard his cousinly relative in the light of a business partner, who is doing his work for him, at least to the extent of keeping his rivals out. The disposition to quarrel with the United States over the Monroe doctrine is no longer the best form in England.

Public Trust or Private Snap.

The District of Columbia is ordinarily a large buyer of anthracite coal. Last winter the anthracite burned in the district schools and institutions amounted to 13,420 tons. The various grades of coal then used were contracted for and delivered at prices varying from $4 70 to $5 80 a ton. The proposals for this year range about $8 70 a ton. Coal for immediate delivery is higher, in most instances. The district commissioners had occasion to buy 25 tons of anthracite coal on Friday and though they finally secured it at the price of $8 50 a ton, the first offer received by the property clerk was $9 75, while another dealer quoted $10 20, with the provision that the offer would hold good for only one hour. The district had to pay $9 a ton several days ago for the Lykens valley quick-burning coal which is used in the steamers of the fire department. The coal bought Friday for $8 50 a ton was to be had in unlimited quantities last year at $5 14 a ton. With contract prices ranging so much higher at this time than a year ago the District of Columbia will not contract, but will buy its coal as it needs it or can get it until conditions change. Bituminous coal for general use is not thought of for the present, because, for example, its use in the school furnaces "would require many changes in the arrangements of those machines, and would, furthermore, create something of a nuisance at variance with the policy of the commissioners in regard to the anti-smoke law." But if something does not happen to make anthracite more plentiful and cheaper between now and Thanksgiving Day the use of bituminous coal will be the only alternative to exorbitant prices.

These rates quoted to the District of Columbia are useful in showing how much above the ordinary are the lowest rates to a large consumer, where patronage would be a large item in the business of a retail dealer. In comparison the rate of $12 a ton to private consumers in New York, and possibly in the District of Columbia as well, does not seem, all things considered, much out of proportion. The present quotable rates point inevitably to the conclusion that anthracite coal will range much higher this winter all over the country than last winter. And all because of a disagreement between the miner and the operator. It is no satisfaction that these contending parties are now suffering large losses in view of the circumstances that the losses of the public measured in increased prices will be much greater and that the operator will make good his losses at the public's expense. It is for this reason and because of the inconvenience suffered that the anthracite strike is or should be treated as a public and not as a private matter. The trend of sentiment on the subject is well illustrated by this statement of Gen Hastings, former governor of Pennsylvania, published in Sunday's Gazette:

> As a coal operator I would naturally be inclined to take the side of the operators in the present strike, but I cannot hold that a coal strike or any other disturbance of labor that in any way affects public necessity, is a private matter. Coal is a necessity, like air, water and daylight. When the supply is restricted or diverted it is a matter of public importance. The position that public necessities are not to be controlled in a measure by the best public opinion is not tenable.

Of course, it is not Gen. Hastings' ox that is being gored, as he is a producer of bituminous coal. And, of course, it is understood that Gen. Hastings, who was once a large personality in state politics, would not object to a reappearance in the political arena. But allowing for these things, it is incontestable that the drift of opinion is in the direction his language indicates. As a public injury is being done the situation is one of public concern. President Baer of the Reading railroad may answer the miners that their rights and interests "will be protected and cared for by the Christian men to whom God in His infinite wisdom has given control of the property interests of the country," but the consuming public is by this time disposed to believe that the self-styled Christian men who assume to have been given control of the property interests of the country are not measuring up to the responsibilities they proclaim, and that, in short, they are treating the great trust they say has been reposed in them as if it were a private snap.

Water for Fires.

It is not often that Philadelphia municipal management offers instructive examples in progressiveness, but exception must be made in favor of its new plan for protecting the business section from fire. Like Pittsburgh, the Quaker City is about to filter its water. At the same time the necessity for larger fire mains was recognized. To avoid the expense of filtering water for fire purposes another system was designed—a high-pressure pumping plant on the Delaware river front with large mains covering the district bounded by Broad, Walnut and Race streets and the Delaware river. Tests of the plant have given most satisfactory results.

A description of this plant in the Engineering News leads to the conviction that it is admirably adapted to the purpose and highly economical. The equipment consists of seven Westinghouse gas engines, directly connected to an equal number of Deane pumps. The advantage of gas engines over steam is in the economy of space, no boiler room being required. Moreover, there is economy in having them ready to carry full load at one minute's notice, the advantage in intermittent operation being with the engine that needs no "stoking up."

Pittsburgh is suffering from extra insurance premiums on account of the inadequacy of the water supply in the downtown district. It must have a new set of mains, larger than those which have outlived their usefulness. In this situation it is well worth while considering whether an independent service, for fire alone, will not be more economical than new mains attached to the domestic service. The Philadelphia experiment offers an opportunity to learn something at very small expense.

Russell Sage has a nephew who intends to go on the stage and who says that as he can hustle for himself there is no need why Uncle Russell should leave him any of his money. However, it is to be assumed that if the uncle remembers the nephew in his will the latter's respect and esteem for his avuncular relative will inspire him to accept whatever may be coming to him. The Sage of Wall street mustn't be misled by the press notices of the other Sage.

State ownership of the coal mines is not to be thought of, and a law fixing minimum wages for miners would not relieve the present situation. There is left for an extra session the adoption of a compulsory arbitration act, which would be binding upon one party only, the miners as individuals being always at liberty to stop work, and the union not being incorporated, free from liability.

The seizure of an Atlantic City hotel for debt suggests that the charges to summer boarders must have been unprofessionally low or that the proprietor failed to fortify himself with a contract providing a rakeoff from the waiters' tips.

New York Hungarians Will Not Tolerate Sentiment on Flag from Old Country.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Aug. 31.

Hungarians in New York are great sticklers for their reputation as loyal American citizens. A curious exemplification of this feeling came to light today, when various Hungarian societies met and denounced a Hungarian flag, which has just reached this port on the steamer Statendam. The societies are composed of men of Hungarian birth who are, or intend to become, American citizens. The flag has been sent as a peace-offering to the Hungarians in this country, and it bears the inscription: "Be ye dauntlessly loyal to your fatherland." This inscription it is that has raised the breeze. The admonition to men of Magyar origin to be loyal to the old country implies a command that their regard for the United States shall be secondary. In fact, many prominent Hungarians in New York insist that the sending of the flag is an attempt on the part of the Hungarian government to foster among Hungarians here a hostile spirit to American institutions. It is not likely that the custom house officials will send the flag back because a certain number of persons from across the seas dislike to see the article admitted. There is nothing contraband in a flag of any kind. Even a Spanish flag, which was duly execrated in this country four years ago, at the time of the war with Spain, would most likely have been allowed to pass through the custom house, so long as there were no unpaid duties on it. Sentiment is a good thing, and this ebullition of the New York Hungarians is commendable in the abstract. At the same time, there is a general opinion that this objection is merely a storm in a teapot, not worth bothering about. It is interesting as being unusual, but it is not likely that it will lead to any international complications, notwithstanding the importance attached to the incident by the Hungarian societies. From all that can be seen, the flag has been sent in good faith, and that doubtless will be taken seriously into consideration by the customs authorities.

Young Croker Shows His Uncle's Trait

The reinstatement of Edward Croker as head of the New York fire department is not to be accomplished without much argument, both in and out of court. Commissioner Sturgis is determined that Croker shall not be chief, and Croker, with much of the tenacity characteristic of his respected uncle, Richard Croker, is equally positive that he and he only shall be chief. Commissioner Sturgis has been ordered to appear before Justice Hall in the supreme court on Tuesday next in contempt proceedings, while Croker smiles triumphantly.

Devery Impersonated on the Stage.

"Big Bill" Devery has found his way to the metropolitan stage by proxy. In Lederer's new musical comedy, "Sally In Our Alley," at the Broadway, one of the characters is made up to represent Devery, and the imitation is done so well that one might for a minute believe it really was "the best chief of police New York ever had," strolling from the wings to the center of the stage. Richard F. Carroll, a comedian well-known in Pittsburgh, plays the part. He has a lot of characteristic sayings that might have been invented by Devery, and his slang is more than up-to-date for it is absolutely new in many instances.

More Liberty for the Smoker.

After prohibiting smoking on the "L" trains for many years, the Manhattan Railway Company permits smokers occupying eight seats in the new open cars to blow a cloud to their heart's content. Ever since the open cars have been in use on the Third avenue division of the "L," smokers have had the freedom of four seats; but yesterday the company issued a proclamation that four additional seats would be at their disposal, and when one of those open cars comes along in the rush hours, night and morning, there is so much smoke that the train looks as if it might be propelled in the old-fashioned way, by steam, instead of by the new-fangled electric motors.

Hastings Back from Europe.

When ex-Gov. D. H. Hastings stepped briskly down the gangplank of the American liner, St. Paul, yesterday morning, returning from Europe, he did not look any older than when, some 13 years ago, he was in charge of the military at Johnstown, just after the flood. Gen. Hastings, at that time, was one of the most democratic and agreeable of all the officials at that dreadful scene of desolation. I took dinner with him in his tent two or three times, and while the society at the table was exceedingly good, comprising, as it did, several distinguished Pennsylvanians of national fame, the bill of fare was very much of the "beef-and" and "draw one" description; but the general ate and drank with a gusto worthy of champagne and terrapin, and I am not sure that he did not like his commissary coffee and corned beef and beans as much as any of the many banquets at which he has since been the guest of honor.

Horsey Talk for Sunday Morning.

As is commonly the case, it was the unexpected that happened at Sheepshead yesterday. The futurity was won by a horse that was talked about only casually as a possible winner, while the favorites were lost in the shuffle. Still, it did not so much matter which horse won. The main thing on the part of the 50,000 persons there was to have a good time and to see a bruising race, and they gained their point. Sunday, as it is, the futurity is the topic of conversation this evening much more than theology, and the race has been run over again today many times. New York gets very enthusiastic over horse racing, and if a big day at the track happens to be Saturday—as it generally is—no one can wonder that it is discussed earnestly on Sunday.

Pulsing Heart of the Subway.

Now that the rapid transit tunnel is coming something near completion, work is becoming more and more active on the power house, wherein is to be generated the mighty force which will speed the trains along. The building and its equipment will cost about $5,000,000. The structure will be divided into two parts, one a boiler house and the other for the engines and electrical machinery. A notable feature of the design will be the placing of the entire boiler, pump, condenser, engine and electrical equipment practically upon one level, the ground floor, thereby assuring maximum efficiency and reliability of operation. There will be 10 8,000-horse power engines, each directly connected with a 5,000 Kilowatt alternater. For each of the engines six boilers will be provided, symmetrically arranged with reference to the engine, and this arrangement will be carried through the building without variation for each generating unit. This feature of the plans is a novelty in power houses. In consequence of it this power house can be extended to receive 12 or even 14 engines by the construction of additional sections.

Every Actor Uses a Gun.

W. T. Keogh's new play, "A Kentucky Feud," which is one of the successes of the New York season so far, is full of gunpowder. An actor in the cast said to me yesterday that at the first performance of the drama he was the only man in the piece that did not carry a gun. As soon as the curtain fell on the opening night Mr. Keogh came to him and wanted to know why he did not draw his pistol and shoot someone in the course of the play. "It is not in my part," answered the actor. "It is a bad oversight," said Mr. Keogh. "I wonder it did not ruin the play." And the next night the actor had two great Colts strapped around him, like all his fellow-players, and Mr. Keogh said the performance had been improved 100 per cent.

Lulu Glaser in Good Form.

Lulu Glaser, Pittsburgh's little primadonna, is home again. She returned from Europe on the French liner La Savoie yesterday. She looked very well, and she said she felt as well as she looked.

Once Employed Mrs. Fair.

Henry V. Dunham, one of the oldest manufacturers of clothing in New York, was buried yesterday from the Seventh Day Baptist church, near Dunellen. When the late Mrs. Charles L. Fair was a girl she worked in the factory of Mr. Dunham, and her mother and father were in his employ for years.

Mosquitoes Overrun Brooklyn.

Brooklyn residents declare that their borough is likely to rival New Jersey as a breeding place for the mosquitoes. Inspectors of the board of health reported to Dr. Raymond, assistant sanitary superintendent, yesterday afternoon that they found mosquitoes at 115 ponds scattered throughout the borough. In the suburbs the pest has become a decided nuisance. A great deal of the land lying outside of old Brooklyn is marshy. From Flatbush down to Coney Island is almost one big breeding ground. In Prospect park, in the eventide, an especially healthy species flourishes, almost as large as those in Jersey, which can be confined in an ordinary chicken-wire hen house.

Horse Knocks Out Automobile.

There is a horse in a suburban town within "commuting" distance of New York which has distinguished itself by kicking an automobile to pieces. The horse is owned by a certain Dr. Cline, who wished to "break" his horse to automobiles. The horse had long trod nervously under the modern blight of its race, the ignoble fear of automobiles. Every time the animal saw one of the steam carriages it appeared to be suddenly smitten with a species of fence or tree-climbing madness. The mere sight of an automobile in its most quiescent state inspired the animal with fear. Dr. Cline determined to rid his horse of its foolish fear, and he concluded that the best way to do it was to introduce the horse to some representative automobile and get the animal thoroughly broken. The introduction was pulled off according to schedule, but it wasn't the horse that was broken. A friend of the doctor's offered his new automobile as an object lesson. The horse was taken close to the machine for a long look. He gave it the look at close range and then rose into the air like another Pegassus. When it came down it came down on the automobile, and then began a kicking match in which the automobile realized its utter hopelessness. The horse landed on one of the front wheels and the tire burst with a report like a cannon shot. Then it turned around and brought both hind feet into play. The automobile was whacked and banged and slammed around till it was a wreck, and the experiment was over.

Not a Cool Summer.

New Yorkers who have been telling each other what a cool summer this has been, were surprised yesterday when the local forecaster announced, with the authority of an official weather man, that the summer has not been strikingly cool. He explained the general misapprehension about this, however, by reminding us that last summer in New York was the hottest on record. The contrast was too great for the ordinary mind to accept unquestioningly the dictum of the law of averages.

Autos Revive an Old Law.

Automobiles on Long Island are to be governed in a manner new in this century, although very old in fact. Some men of wealth and prominence have organized to curb the supposed madness of certain automobilists and to protect themselves from the reckless chauffeur. They will invoke the old king's law that was operative before the nineteenth century dawned, and at a time when a horseless vehicle in action would probably have been followed by the trial of the driver for witchcraft. This old colonial law forbade the driving of vehicles upon the king's highway in such a manner and at such a speed as to endanger the life or limbs of the king's subjects.

ITALIAN ROYALTY'S MOUNTAIN HOME

Terrorists Threaten Life of Russia's Competent Minister of the Interior.

By MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

While King Victor Emmanuel has been paying his long deferred visit to the kaiser at Berlin, Queen Helen and his little daughter, Princess Yolande, have been remaining quietly at the castle of Racconigi in the Piedmont, which has entirely taken the place of Monza as the summer residence of Italy's ruler. The castle is most picturesquely situated on a very lofty crag, and was in olden times part fortress and part monastery. For 200 years it has been in the possession of the now reigning house of Italy, and it was the favorite residence of King Charles Albert of Sardinia, who may be said to have modernized it in so far that he rendered it a most luxurious and comfortable royal abode. The more ancient portions of the castle date back to the eleventh and twelfth centuries. Both King Victor Emmanuel and his consort are extremely fond of the place and the young queen in particular, a mountain-bred girl, finds the bracing air of the Highlands of Piedmont extremely beneficial to herself and also to her baby girl.

Terrorists Threaten Minister.

M. Plehve, the czar's minister of the interior, has received a warning to the effect that he is sentenced to death by the terrorists, and that he is destined to share the fate of his predecessors in office, Sipiaguine and Bobilepoff. He is carrying his life in his hands and he realizes it. He knows when he wakes every morning that his chance of ever seeing the sun set is one that no insurance company would care to risk. None the less he goes about his business in the most unconcerned fashion, and apparently without any special precautions being taken to insure his safety.

I have on several occasions in these columns placed on record traits of character of this very remarkable and scrupulously honest Muscovite statesman, who is renowned for his severity. It is true that as under secretary of state for the interior, as chief of the state police and as public prosecutor he was the terror of all offenders, both criminal and political. But he insisted the police should bring convincing proof of every charge that they made, and that every prisoner should be heard in his own defense before he was condemned. No political offender was ever sent off into banishment through his agency without having previously received a hearing.

Another peculiarity about this minister is that he has no patience with dreams or dreamers, or for all those Utopian schemes to better the condition of the people which are impossible of execution.

He admits there is plenty of room for reform, but declares the time has not yet come for them, and that before everything else it is necessary to get the administrative machine as it now exists into proper working order. He is not reactionary but rather stationary.

At any moment we may hear of his death by assassination, and if that time arrives the czar will have lost one of the most capable and remarkable men in his dominions.

Brazilian Pretender to Throne.

A royal engagement has just been announced which is not without a certain amount of transatlantic interest, for the Archduchess Elizabeth of Austria, step-sister of Archduke Francis Ferdinand, the heir apparent to the Austro-Hungarian throne, has betrothed herself to Prince Peter of Alcantara, eldest son of the ex-crown princess of Brazil, and the hope of the monarchial party in Brazil.

The prince, who was born twenty-seven years ago at Rio de Janeiro, has been reared partly in France, but chiefly in Austria, where he received his military education and where he holds a commission of lieutenant in a lancer regiment.

He may be rated indeed as among the ex-rulers, and as having for a few hours been invested with the dignity of emperor of Brazil, for when his grandfather, old Dom Pedro, abdicated the Brazilian throne in November, 1889, he did so in favor of his grandson, Prince Peter, the eldest son of his eldest daughter, who was, however, forced to leave the country with him, and proclaimed an exile.

Prince Peter is a good looking young fellow, who has done some big game shooting in India and Eastern Africa, who has achieved considerable distinction as a daring Alpinist, and is credited with having traveled all over Brazil three years ago without the government of the republic being aware of his presence or his identity. There are plenty of people in Brazil who are dissatisfied with the present form of government. The prince, it cannot be denied, is the hope of every malcontent, as well as of all the old-time monarchists, who are exceedingly numerous.

Clergy Favors an Empire.

The Brazilian clergy and episcopacy is likewise credited with being devoted to the monarchical cause, and both at Paris and Vienna, a coup d'etat in Brazil in favor of the restoration of the empire is regarded as one of the possibilities of the situation in the Western hemisphere.

While the cousins of Prince Peter, that is to say the sons of his mother's younger sister, have made their peace with the government of the republic, abandoned their pretensions and received from the Brazilian treasury a large sum of money as a compensation for the loss of their private estates in Brazil, the prince himself and his younger brothers have never surrendered their claims. Prince Peter remains a pretender to the Brazilian throne. He is popular, dashing and possessed of a personal courage and daring in which all other monarchical pretenders seem deficient. Moreover the fact that he is rich, and that he is brother-in-law of the future emperor of Austro-Hungary contribute to render him a subject of anxiety to the Brazilian republic, which cannot forget the experiences of the republic of Mexico in connection with the brother of the present emperor of Austria.

Famous Old Diplomatist.

While on the subject of Brazil I may mention that if the Brazilian republic had fulfilled its original intention of sending a special ambassador to London for the coronation of King Edward, the envoy selected would have been that grand old fellow, the Viscount de Barbacena, a popular figure in London and Paris, and who has just celebrated his hundredth birthday, although retaining the elasticity and vigor of a man of a little over sixty.

The viscount was present at the coronation of King George IV. as secretary of the Portugese legation in London, and likewise attended in an official capacity the coronation of William IV. and of Queen Victoria. Born as far back as 1802 is seems difficult to realize that at the time Brazil was merely a Portugese colony, and that it was not until at least twenty years later that it rose to the dignity of an independent empire, the viscount was playing an active part in connection with the Separatist movement.

The viscount, had he attended King Edward's coronation as projected, would have been the only person present who had witnessed the coronation of King George IV. He played a leading part in the introduction of railroads into Brazil. is a member of the Royal Institution in London and of the Royal Geographical Society of England. He still speaks English as perfectly as when eighty years ago he was a popular member of London society.

PERSONAL.

"The natural gas supply of West Virginia will not be exhausted within the next quarter of a century," remarked J. P. Dewalt at Newell's hotel last night. "The state will be able to supply all the gas that West Virginia can burn during the present generation. Besides gas, the state is turning out large wells of oil. Some of your Pittsburgh politicians has an interest in some of the best wells yet drilled in Ritchie and Pleasants county. They are in the Knot Run district and one of them has been flowing at the rate of 1 to 500 barrels a day since it was brought in the latter part of June. It is one of the Three Joe's wells and the oil was found in the Keener sand. There are seven producing wells in this territory and three dry holes. Three more wells are about in the sand in this district and will come in during the present week. The outlook for them is excellent, and I will not be surprised if they are good producers."

"There are splendid opportunities for the investment of American capital in Mexico," said A. B. Ingalsbee, a real estate dealer of Mexico, at Union station last night. "Many large plantations have been placed on the market which are underlaid with minerals of all kinds. The City of Mexico is becoming one of the most progressive cities on the American continent. The entire city is being underlaid with a modern sewerage system, and will shortly become one of the most healthy cities in the world."

"The corn crop of the west will be the largest in years," said W. H. Crampton of Rock Island last night, while the limited was changing engines. "The wheat is abundant, and when it is moved east the banks will have all the money necessary for its shipment. British People Appeal to Their Government for Protection—News of a Venezuela Government Defeat Confirmed. Caracas Fired Upon.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

PORT OF SPAIN, TRINIDAD, B. W. I., Aug. 31.—News reached here from Carupano, Venezuela, this morning, that the government general, Velutini, would leave Carupani today with three gunboats and 500 men to bombard a second time Ciudad Bolivar, on the Orinoco river, which is still in the hands of the Venezuelan revolutionists.

Ciudad Bolivar, capital of the state of Bolivar, was bombarded by the Venezuelan gunboats Bolivar and Restaurador last week and many persons were killed or wounded.

British subjects at Ciudad Bolivar have requested that a warship of Great Britain be sent for their protection.

News from an official source confirms previous reports that last Friday 500 men of the Venezuelan army, who formed the vanguard of the government forces near Oeumare, deserted to the revolutionists. They took their arms and equipment with them and carried their chief, Gen. Castillo, a prisoner to the enemy.

The 600 government soldiers who have been trying to re-establish traffic on the German railroad from Caracas to Valencia, were repeatedly interrupted by the insurgents Thursday and Friday of last week, and on Friday they were defeated by a detachment of insurgents near Los Teques. The town of Los Teques is now in the hands of the insurgents.

The vice president of Venezuela, during the absence of Castro at Cua, is domiciled in the presidential palace Miraflores, situated on a hill in Caracas, and commands the city. Last Thursday night the vice president's guard heard a shot in the vicinity of Miraflores and at once began firing their rifles upon the city from their position on the stone platform surrounding the palace. The people of Caracas were much alarmed for some time.

It has been learned that the Venezuelan government has given orders to Gen. Anguren, president of the state of Maracaibo, to turn over the presidency to Gen. Olivares. Gen. Anguren has refused to obey this order and complications are feared.

COLON, COLOMBIA, Aug. 31.—The Colombian cruiser Cartagena, under command of Capt. Christiansen, with 600 government troops on board, arrived here this morning. The Cartagena was formerly the Moorish war vessel Beechir-es-Salameh. Further government reinforcements are expected to reach the isthmus shortly. The arrival of government reinforcements from Barranquilla has caused great enthusiasm among the conservatives.

Judging from the news received from the Agua Dulce district, Gen. Berti is believed to be holding his ground against the insurgents.

DEMAND IN THE VALLEY FOR MORE RECITALS

Walter E. Hall Re-Engaged for Carnegie Music Hall at Braddock and Will Experiment in Homestead.

Walter E. Hall of this city, organist at Trinity Protestant Episcopal church, Sixth avenue, Pittsburgh, was on Saturday chosen by the officials of the Carnegie free library and music hall, at Braddock, as organist for the coming winter and spring season. Mr. Hall filled the position last winter, but it was understood by him at the time that he was chosen at the large salary he asked, as an experiment, that is, as far as his power to hold the public was concerned.

It was said last season that it was doubtful whether the Braddock trustees could afford to pay the salary permanently that Mr. Hall received last year, but Saturday it was decided unanimously, especially in view of the work of Mr. Hall at the Pittsburgh Carnegie Music hall in the absence of Edwin H. Lemare last season, that Mr. Hall was the very man Braddock needed.

Last season Mr. Hall gave fortnightly organ recitals in Braddock, and these were more largely attended than any of the recitals given the previous year. Mr. Hall stated yesterday that he could not, in his opinion, give too many recitals at Braddock, and that it was more than likely that Braddock would this season have weekly concerts instead of semi-monthly concerts as last year, although this has not been specified in his contract.

It is also announced that Mr. Hall has been engaged by Mr. Carnegie's representative to introduce free organ recitals at Homestead the coming season. While Braddock has had organ recitals the past three years—until last season in a rather spasmodic way—Homestead has had none as yet, although its big pipe organ has been up about 18 months. One concert each month will be given at Homestead, to learn the tastes and needs of the people there in that direction.

OHIO DEMOCRATS SHORT OF TIMBER

NOMINATIONS ON THE STATE TICKET GO BEGGING.

Tom L. Johnson Will Preside at Convention in Sandusky This Week and Control Its Deliberations—May Name Preacher for Secretary of State.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

SANDUSKY, O., Aug. 31.—The Democratic state convention will be held here this week to nominate candidates for secretary of state, supreme judge, dairy and food commissioner and member of the state board of public works. There are fewer candidates in the field than usual.

Senator William Decker of Paulding was among the first mentioned for the head of the ticket, but he does not seem to be in the field now. John E. Stang of this city and a member of the State Central committee, in which capacity he secured the location of the convention here, has been urged by his friends to be a candidate, but he has made no aggressive effort himself.

The Butler county delegation will present the name of Charles E. Mason for secretary of state, and in the event of his failure, that delegation will present the name of Joseph J. Pater for member of the state board of public works.

The most prominent man mentioned in connection with the nomination for secretary of state is the Rev. Herbert S. Bigelow, pastor of the Vine Street Congregational church at Cincinnati. His name has been prominently mentioned with the head of the ticket for a long time, but it came into special prominence at the close of the past week, when he headed the opposition to Lewis G. Bernard in Hamilton county.

Bigelow is a close friend of Mayor T. L. Johnson of Cleveland, who will preside over the convention, and will be the most conspicuous and influential figure in it.

There is a lack of candidates for places on the state ticket, and no slate is likely to be made until after the arrival of Mayor Johnson with the Cleveland delegation on Tuesday morning. It is understood that Mayor Johnson will bring with him the platform which is likely to be adopted without opposition.

While there are some delegates not in accord with Mayor Johnson, they are not disposed to oppose him, but rather to let him have his way in everything this year, as they said, "To see what he can do on the lines of his new departure."

The drift of opinion is that the McLean men will make no contest for anything except for control of the state central committee, just as they did at Cincinnati last week, where the McLean men, in reelecting Lewis G. Bernard chairman of the Democratic executive committee, retained control of the party machinery and let their opponents select delegates to the state convention and have everything else.

A RATTLESNAKE DEN.

Supt. Tretow Will Add This Feature to the Highland Park Zoo.

Although the sun's rays were very warm yesterday there was enough breeze going to make the day pleasant, and many people went out to the two city parks. The Baltimore & Ohio railroad ran its usual Sunday excursions from Cumberland and other points on its line. The visitors upon their arrival in the city yesterday went to the parks, the majority of them going to the zoo. While the attendance was not as great as on last Sunday, still the crowd was very large. Few people went to Schenley park, and the attendance at the art galleries and museum was small.

Superintendent Ernest Tretow is getting a collection of venomous snakes, and is arranging a den for them. Two large rattlesnakes were donated to the zoo on Saturday by John Weitbaus, proprietor of the Hotel Lafayette, Grant and Liberty streets. One of them has 16 rattles and is a fine specimen. The three lionesses, which were whelped last November, promise to be very large animals when full grown. They are very savage. The male and female lions born August 4 are doing well and are now as playful as kittens. The dam of these cubs was born on Washington's birthday, in 1899, and was the first lioness to see light in the Highland zoo. During the early spring and summer the piping of quail could be heard throughout the park. There are now two large coveys of these birds scattered through the place, and yesterday several of the birds were seen scurrying through the brush and shrubbery. As the day was warm and pleasant, many of the monkeys were out in their summer houses and helped to entertain the crowds.

RALLY TO MEET THE INVASION BY AMERICANS

British Members of Parliament Organize Committee as Defense Measure.

SIGNS OF AN AWAKENING

Obsolete and Trade Repressive Laws to Be Wiped Off the Statute Books. The Question of Tariff to Be Considered—Patent Handicaps.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
601 Fifteenth St., N. W.,
Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.

Marshal Halstead, United States consul at Birmingham, under date of August 11, reports to the state department that the commercial interests of Great Britain are organizing to compete with the United States in the markets of the world. His report says:

"As an indication of what is being done here, I wish to call attention to the fact that there has been formed a commercial committee of members of the British parliament—comprising, it is stated, 130 members and representing all political parties—whose object is to study from a non-partisan standpoint the commercial needs of Great Britain and to give legislative effect to the points decided upon in conference. In a recent letter to the London Times, E. Sinclair, the honorary secretary of this commercial committee, gives the history and aims of the organization:

The commercial committee is more directly the outcome of a series of meetings which I was the means of calling in the house of commons to consider in what way the great interests of the trade and commerce of this country could be assisted and developed through the action of parliament. The fixed idea which prompted the actual formation of the committee is the continuous, systematic, and practical study of questions concerning in any way the interests of British trade and commerce, with a view to removing the obstacles now encountered by reason of the many obsolete and prejudicial enactments and regulations, and the lack of businesslike methods of administration; and, furthermore, to initiate and promote new legislation.

It must be acknowledged at once that this program is very wide and a most difficult one to carry out with any sort of effectiveness, and indeed it would be absurd for the committee to aim at such an extended scope were it not that we know we shall receive the warm cooperation and support of industrial and commercial associations, chambers of commerce, and the various kindred organizations throughout the empire.

No great results can be expected until such time as the machinery has been for some while in full working order and the active co-operation of the public enlisted. Progress must of necessity at the outset be slow.

Among the subjects which I hope will occupy the attention of the committee are: The question of tariffs, in regard to which foreigners seem to hold such advantages over our own producers to our own home markets; the question of our patent laws, and the disadvantages under which our inventors are placed; the question of commercial attaches and representatives in our colonies where foreign countries have agents; the inadequacy of our consular service; and the hardships and evil consequences resulting upon the factory and workships act not having been framed by a minister of commerce fully acquainted with the exigencies of the cases.

We have already begun to put ourselves into communication with the various commercial and trade associations of Great Britain, and through the members of parliament representing them we are endeavoring to get into close touch with merchants and business men in order to learn the actual needs of commerce and to enable us to at once deal with legislation in connection therewith.

I wish to state that I, or any of the other members of the executive committee, viz, Sir William Houldsworth, Sir W. H. Holland, and Mr. J. S. Randles, will be most happy to hear from public bodies interested in the work the commercial committee has in view.

HAYMAKER SAYS HE WILL ASSIST ATTORNEY PRICE

Will Allow Him to Interrogate the Constables About Speakeasies.

SAYS POLICE SHOULD ACT

The District Attorney Says He Has Enough to Do to Look After the County—Municipal Officers Should Look After the Local Situation.

District Attorney John C. Haymaker is anxious to have the speakeasies in Pittsburgh abolished. When he learned yesterday that it was the intention of Attorney W. M. Price at the opening of the court this morning to hand him a list of these notorious resorts for him to investigate and prosecute he said that he would give Attorney Price full power to make the investigation and he would direct the constables in the various wards in question to work with Attorney Price in his investigation. As he said yesterday: "I will turn the constables over to Mr. Price and he can carry on the investigation himself. If he finds these resorts he can make information and carry on the prosecution."

District Attorney Haymaker has always been antagonistic to the speakeasies in Pittsburgh and throughout Allegheny county. Just at the closing session of the court he ordered County Detective Robert G. Robinson to make an investigation in Pittsburgh suburbs of these illegal drinking resorts.

Detective Robinson did this, and in May he arrested more than 20 proprietors of speakeasies. These men were committed to jail for trial at court and their cases will come up for trial during this term. District Attorney Haymaker will do everything in his power to have the speakeasies closed in the city limits, but he thinks that is a matter which should be attended to by the municipal officers. He says, he has enough to do to watch after the interests of the county.

Will Give All Needed Help.

"It is not the time to make a personal investigation of the conditions in Pittsburgh. There is a large and sufficient police force in Pittsburgh to regulate those matters. He claims, however, that if Attorney Price will conduct the investigation of the speakeasies he will give all the help needed. And if Attorney Price is so inclined he can carry on the examination of these cases before the courts, in place of the district attorney and his assistants.

According to Attorney Price he has certain clients who have been watching the operations of the Pittsburgh police and have come to the conclusion that if a suffering few only are to be prosecuted, it is time that all illegal liquor resorts should be closed. His clients claim the police have not done this. They have only closed the smaller resorts.

It is also the intention of Attorney Price's clients to investigate the relation existing between the property owners and the tenants who are carrying on this illegal business. These are the persons that his clients have a special grievance against.

Has Gathered Evidence.

Attorney Price is alleged to have said that he has already accumulated sufficient evidence to make information against many owners of houses where speakeasies are conducted in this city. He says, however, that he merely wants to ascertain whether the grand jury will endorse the evidence that will be given by the ward constables against these owners.

District Attorney Haymaker said yesterday that Attorney Price need give himself no uneasiness on this score, as the evidence of the constables will be accepted by the grand jury just as readily as from some other source.

"I will direct the constables to investigate the places Attorney Price assigns to them," said Mr. Haymaker. "They will have to do it. If these illegal resorts are in existence they must be closed, and the keepers and also the owners of the properties in which they are conducted, will be compelled to explain their exact relations in court. Of course, the information must be made and the investigation carried on within the requirements of the law."

The resorts that Attorney Price refers to are in the Eighth, Seventh, Second, Third, Fifth and Sixth wards.

A DISAPPOINTED PARTY.

Australian Premier and Other High Officials Run Up Against Mount Vernon Sunday Closing.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 31.—(Special.)—Because the grounds at Mount Vernon are closed on Sundays Sir Edmund Barton, Lady Barton and a party of distinguished officials who are returning home from the coronation via the United States, were prevented from paying homage to the memory of Washington at his tomb. That was the principal object of the visit to the national capital.

All too late the visitors learned of the closing of Mount Vernon on Sundays. Every effort was made to have the rule suspended, but to no avail. Sorely disappointed, Sir Edmund and his party left tonight for Niagara Falls, after which they will go westward to sail for Sidney from the Pacific coast.

The party consisted of Sir Edmund Barton, prime minister of Australia, and Lady Barton; Sir John Forrest, minister of defense, and Lady Forrest; Austin Chapman, first government whip in the Australian house of representatives, and Mr. Flannery. They arrived in Washington on Friday and spent Saturday in drives around Washington and visits to the capitol. Congressional library and the Washington monument, but the principal event of the visit was to be a trip by electric cars to Mount Vernon today. Too late yesterday the Sunday closure rule was brought to Sir Edmund's attention.

STOUT AWNING WAS A TOBOGGAN SLIDE

HENRY MEYER THREW HIS WIFE OUT OF A WINDOW.

Was Angry Because She Was Not at Home and Gave a Spectacular Performance That Resulted in His Being Locked Up.

Smallman street, a short distance above Twenty-sixth street, was the scene of a lively incident at an early hour yesterday morning, during which the air was filled with the wild, shrill cries of women for help. Henry Meyer was the vigorous actor who brought about the disturbance. His wife, Katherine, a good looking, well formed woman, was an involuntary assistant to her husband. That was when he picked her up bodily and threw her out a second-story window.

Those who saw this feat expected to find the woman badly injured, possibly dead, on the pavement 20 feet below. But as luck had it, the woman fell on a stout canvas awning, and as she rolled down she turned so that when she reached the edge her feet were pointing downward and she shot gracefully out into the air and landed squarely on her feet. She was not hurt in the least, except that she was made sick by fright and shock.

Meyer and his wife live in Smallman street near Twenty-eighth street. Early yesterday morning Meyer returned to his home and found his wife absent. There was nothing about the place to inform him where she was. However, he soon found her trail and proceeded to follow it up, finding her in the house of a friend two squares below on the same street. Meyer had been drinking and was not as polite in his mode of entering the house where his wife was as he might have been. His entrance, in fact, was like that of a cyclone. He burst in the door after the manner of a mad bull, and then there was something doing. The flight of Mrs. Meyer through the window was the climax of a very lively time.

The yelling of the other women was lusty and continuous. The noise attracted the attention of a police officer, who arrived on the scene about the time Mrs. Meyer shot out into the air from the awning. A moment later the officer put an end to Meyer's wild career by arresting him and locking him up at No. 3 police station.

At the hearing yesterday morning Meyer was all but forgiven by his wife, and an attempt was made to have the affair appear in the light of an accident, but Magistrate J. V. McMasters imposed a fine of $25 and costs, or 90 days in the workhouse, after giving the man a severe lecture.

MANY CASES DISPOSED OF BY MAGISTRATES

Over 150 Unfortunates Were Arraigned at the Police Court Hearings Yesterday Morning.

There were 70 prisoners at Central police station yesterday morning when the hearings were conducted by Magistrate D. J. McGarvey. Most of the prisoners were arrested for minor offenses and 28 were discharged, while as many paid nominal fines. Mamie Crump was fined $3 and costs as a woman of the streets. She was arrested on suspicion of stealing $1,100 from a man last Thursday, but the victim said she was not the woman. Maud and Charles Henning were arrested on suspicion of knowing something of the same robbery, but no evidence was forthcoming to show it. They were fined $10 and costs, however, on general principles. All these are colored.

Bessie Mouthean of Congress street was fined $10 and costs. She is a colored woman; Richard Reardon, a white man, who was with her, also paid a fine of $10 and costs. When searched at the station a revolver was found in the woman's stocking.

Allen Williams was fined $10 and costs for keeping a gambling house in Boone alley, and seven men found there paid $5 and costs each.

Charles Pride, a colored man, was fined $50 and costs or 90 days to the workhouse. The arresting officer said he was a professional thief.

Magistrate J. V. McMasters, at No. 3 station, heard 37 cases yesterday morning. Edward Fitzpatrick was fined $25 and costs for attempting to open a patrol box in Thirtieth street with a door key. He broke the key in the lock and a moment later was arrested, after a fierce struggle, by Officer M. A. Strudler.

Samuel Pasley, whose house at No. 9 Stockholm avenue was raided early yesterday morning by Inspector of Police John Lennix and Lieut. Harry Myers, was held for court charged with selling liquor without a license. The nine visitors arrested with Pasley were let off with small fines.

Magistrate Samuel T. Kerr heard 20 cases at No. 5 police station. All were drunks and disorderlies, and the fines assessed were small.

Charles Hannon of Atwood street was sent to the workhouse for three months by Magistrate John H. Armstrong at the Oakland police station yesterday. When arrested Saturday night he put up a stiff fight and it took the combined efforts of half a dozen policemen to subdue him. Ten other prisoners were before the same magistrate, all charged with minor offenses.

Magistrate Henry Hunneshagen disposed of 16 cases at Allegheny Central station. Patrick Foleno and Thomas Gathu, both of Pittsburgh, were each fined $10 and costs for fighting in West Robinson street, and Alfred Elliott of Rose avenue was sent 60 days to the workhouse for abusing his wife.

WILL SUPPORT THE CITIZENS TICKET

McKeesport Hebrew Club Made Its Decision—Other Clubs to Meet Later.

The Hebrew political clubs of Allegheny county held a joint meeting yesterday afternoon in McKeesport. About 140 delegates were present to decide upon which ticket they would support in the coming election. There was a division of sentiment, and finally the McKeesport club decided to support the Citizens county ticket. The remainder of the clubs decided to postpone any action for three weeks, when a meeting will be held in Pittsburgh.

The following officers were elected for the county organization: Max Reuben of Pittsburgh, president; B. Weiss of East Pittsburgh, first vice president; Henry Shurmer of Braddock, second vice president; M. Citto of Homestead, third vice president; Samuel Firestone of McKeesport, treasurer; S. Borton of Pittsburgh, secretary, and M. J. Federman of McKeesport, financial secretary. The meeting yesterday was presided over by Samuel Reiter of McKeesport.

TEN PERSONS HURT.

Two Trolley Cars Collide on Hill Near Niles, O.

NILES, O., Aug. 31.—(Special.)—A serious accident on the Mahoning Valley railway occurred last midnight in which 10 persons were more or less injured. While the 11 o'clock limited from Youngstown to Warren was coming down the hill into this city, following closely the regular car, the latter made an unexpected stop. The motorman of the limited could not stop in time and went crashing into the forward car.

Miss Grace Clark of Warren was most seriously injured and was cared for at the office of Dr. Swaney, whence she was taken to the City hospital at Youngstown today. She is badly bruised and hurt internally.

Meyersdale Girl Commits Suicide by Drinking Laudanum; Grand Army of Altoona Expects President to Attend Reunion

YOUNG WOMAN KILLS HERSELF

Meyersdale Girl Ends Her Life by Drinking Laudanum.

CAUSE FOR DEED UNKNOWN

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

MEYERSDALE, PA., Aug. 31.—This afternoon Mary Brunton, aged about 18, committed suicide by drinking two ounces of laudanum. Shortly after dinner she left home with a companion, saying she intended to go to church. Unknown to her friends she entered a drug store and purchased the laudanum. She then persuaded the girl who was with her to take a walk to the station, and later both went out the track to a point under a large oak tree, about a quarter of a mile east of town.

Miss Brunton suddenly produced the vial and drank its contents. Her companion spread the alarm, but before her father and physicians could reach the scene, life was extinct.

Miss Brunton comes from a highly respectable family, and what motive prompted her to take her life is not fully known, but will probably be developed at the inquest.

FARM HAND KILLED IN JUSTICE DEAN'S BARN

Lightning Ignited the Building and Girls Rescued the Live Stock from the Flames.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

ALTOONA, PA., Aug. 31.—During a short thunderstorm yesterday afternoon lightning struck the big barn on Supreme Court Justice John Dean's farm at Elizabeth furnace, three miles east of Altoona, setting it on fire. In the barn at the time was Augustus D. Carpenter, aged 21, a farm hand employed by J. Reiniger, who has charge of the farm. He had finished his day's work and was putting away his horses. The same bolt which fired the barn killed Carpenter.

The only persons about the farm were Reininger's two young daughters, Carrie and Maggie. When they saw the barn in flames they ran to it, and making a hurried search, found Carpenter's body. They carried it out and into the house. Then they returned and removed nearly all the live stock and part of the vehicles and farm implements.

The season's hay crop, together with feed and harness, were consumed with the barn. The loss will aggregate $4,000, with $3,400 insurance. Carpenter leaves a widow and child.

FREIGHT HOUSE THIEVES.

Railroad Man Bound and Locked in a Box Car—Safe Too Strong.

BUTLER, PA., Aug. 31.—(Special.)—Morgan Kennedy, the hostler at the West Penn yards, had a thrilling hold-up while in duty last night.

Kennedy was making the rounds of the yard about 2 o'clock this morning and was passing a freight car that stands in front of the freight house door when he heard the click of a revolver. Wheeling about, he was confronted by two masked men who leveled guns at his head and commanded him to keep quiet. Kennedy yelled with all his might, when he was seized by two more robbers and securely bound. He was then shut in the car and a guard placed over him while the gang went through the ticket office at the station and made an attempt to blow open the safe. Failing in that, they departed and left Kennedy bound in the car.

Kennedy managed to work his hands loose in about an hour, and gave the alarm, but the robbers had escaped. It is thought that one of the gang had secreted himself in the freight house Saturday evening and opened the door for the rest, as no locks were broken and no windows disturbed about the building.

TWENTY PLUNGED INTO CREEK.

Foot Bridge Collapsed With Party of Young People.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., Aug. 31.—(Special.)—While a party of 20 young people were returning home from a church supper at Ford last night a suspension foot bridge across Pond creek gave way under their weight, and the whole party was precipitated into 10 feet of water. The bridge was about 10 feet above the water.

Only a few of the party could swim, but they, with others who were attracted by the screams of those in the stream, managed to rescue the entire party. Several of the young ladies of the party were prostrated from the shock, but all are out of danger today.

Brewery for Claysville.

CLAYSVILLE, PA., Aug. 31.—(Special.)—If all reports be true Claysville will have a brewery in a short time. It is to be located on the property below the railroad owned by Gardner & Son. An ice plant is to be run in connection. It is also stated that a glass house will be erected. Washington men are interested in the enterprises.

BURIED BY REQUEST IN DEMOCRATIC CEMETERY.

CUMBERLAND, MD., Aug. 31.—(Special.)—Benjamin Wilson, aged 78, who kept bachelor's hall all his life, is dead at Deep Hollow, W. Va., after a lingering illness. He died while alone. He kept dry goods and notions stores at Harned and Deep Hollow. Wilson was a dyed-in-the-wool Democrat, and his request that he be buried at Forman cemetery, some distance away, because all buried there were Democrats, was obeyed yesterday.

WABASH CREATES DEMAND FOR COAL

Proposed Line in Washington County Causes Land Prices to Rise.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, PA., Aug. 31.—The report that the Wabash was about to project a line through Washington and Greene counties into Fayette county and West Virginia, has been the means of stimulating coal sales during the past week. Southern Washington county, especially along the Chartiers valley, the route of the proposed new road, has been overrun with speculators, seeking to secure options on territory.

In the same territory, within the past month, coal has been sold for $30 per acre. The farmers are importuned to option at from $125 to $150 per acre. Just before the announcement last week of the Wabash's intention, a block of coal in Morris township, this county, was bought by J. W. Dawson of Uniontown at $32 per acre. The block contains about 4,000 acres.

Railroads Want Fair Grounds.

WASHINGTON, PA., Aug. 31.—It is generally understood among Washington real estate men that there is already great rivalry between the Pennsylvania and Wabash railroad companies to secure the Washington fair grounds. The lines of the Pennsylvania Company run along the side of the grounds and it is understood that they will bid high before they will see the grounds pass into the hands of their rival.

Steel Worker Killed.

SHARON, PA., Aug. 31.—(Special.)—W. T. Thomas, a steel worker, fell from a trestle at the National steel works yesterday and sustained injuries from which he died today. He leaves a family.

HENRY H. ZELLERS, CRESTLINE'S BIG POLICEMAN.

CRESTLINE, O., Aug. 31.—(Special.)—There have been boasts from many towns about large policemen, but Crestline claims the reputation of having the biggest "awe-inspirer" that tramps a beat or that ever "beat a tramp." Crestline at the present time bears the proud distinction of being entirely rid of rough characters. Harry H. Zellers has been on the night force here for nearly two years. He stands 6 feet 5 inches in height and weighs 250 pounds. His reach from tip to tip of fingers is 81½ inches. Although but 28 years of age, he is one of the most powerful men in this part of the country, having followed the trade of blacksmithing for a number of years. He is a Maccabee and is well liked by the entire community—in fact, everyone "looks up" to him.

ALTOONA WANTS TO SEE TEDDY

Grand Army Committee Invites Roosevelt to Attend Celebration.

DEMONSTRATION EXPECTED

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

ALTOONA, PA., Aug. 31.—President Roosevelt is expected to visit this city. The committee having charge of the big Grand Army celebration, which takes place at Lakemont park, adjoining here, September 13, has extended to the chief executive of the nation a most cordial invitation to atend at that time. It is highly probable that the president may arrange his plans to accept the invitation.

After his visit at Chattanooga, Tenn., it is the intention of the president to return east this way, and it is then expected to have the stopover made at this place. Since it is known that President Roosevelt is expected here, it has become the sole topic of public discussion and cause of jubilant excitement, and a demonstration will be arranged the like of which was never eclipsed in this section.

The Grand Army committee is confident that the president will stop here. All the industrial enterprises in this locality are to close down on that day, and every person will be given an opportunity to participate in the ovation.

LIMITED STRUCK A FREIGHT.

Fast Baltimore & Ohio Trains Collide in a Tunnel.

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., Aug. 31.—(Special.)—The Duquesne limited, on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, crashed into the rear of fast freight No. 72 in Brooks tunnel, on the Connellsville division, last night. Conductor J. S. Parker was sitting in the baggage car when the crash came, and a pile of trunks fell on him, breaking three of his ribs, and otherwise injuring him. Five passengers were slightly injured, but all were able to proceed on their journey. Parker was brought to his home here, and will probably recover.

The freight was held up at the east end of the tunnel, and her flagman was sent back to Ursina, three miles. The limited picked up the flagmen and was proceeding toward the train at slow speed. In the darkness Engineer William Thornley did not see the caboose of the freight.

JAIL DELIVERY PREVENTED.

Ten Prisoners About to Escape When Operations Were Discovered.

MOUNDSVILLE, W. VA., Aug. 31.—(Special.)—The accidental discovery of a human hand protruding from a hole in the wall of the county jail made by the removal of a brick, prevented a wholesale jail delivery last night.

Ten prisoners, with saw and crowbar, managed to get free from the cage in which they were confined in the lower corridor and had removed one brick from the wall and were about to remove others, when the discovery was made by a belated pedestrian. He made a closer inspection after seeing the hand, and then notified the sheriff and jailer in time to prevent the prisoners from escaping.

FATALL SHOT IN QUARREL.

Wellsville Man Wounded by a Companion in Wheeling.

WHEELING, W. VA., Aug. 31.—(Special.)—Jasper Kelley was shot and fatally wounded before daylight this morning by Carl Pebler, son of a prominent stogie manufacturer. Kelley was on his way from his home in Wellsville, O., to Fine Grove, W. Va., to join his wife, who is visiting there, when he fell in with Pebler, whom he had not previously known.

The two drank freely, with a third party unknown to the police, and a quarrel preceded the shooting. Pebler ran into the river, but changed his mind about escaping in that manner.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Utica, N. Y., Aug. 31.—By failure to make connections at Buffalo the Pittsburghs disappointed fully 5,000 people in this city today. Two hours before the game was to have commenced there were 1,000 people on the grounds and the cars leading to the grounds were crowded.

At 1 o'clock a message was received from Buffalo that the team could not reach here and efforts were at once put in force to turn back the crowd.

The Utica association has received no further explanation of the failure to come except that conveyed in the brief announcement that connection had been missed. It means a loss of about $1,500 to the Utica managers.

President Barney Dreyfuss of the Pittsburgh Baseball club was very much disappointed last night when informed that the scheduled exhibition game between the Utica team and the champions had to be called off on account of the Pittsburghs not being able to make railroad connections.

Others were disappointed also. The greatest disappointment would be experienced by the players, who this year are given a percentage of the money taken in at these exhibition contests. But Pittsburgh was not the only team doomed to disappoint baseball fans in New York cities yesterday. The Cincinnati team was scheduled to play in Schnectady, but also failed to make their proper railroad connections.

The Pittsburgh friends of Tannehill, Smith, Chesbro and Leach were very busy last night denying the reports in circulation that they had already signed with the American league. While it was admitted that negotiations had been opened with the players by the rival organization, it was claimed that none of the men had signed.

If the players who intend jumping have not signed with the American, the Pittsburgh club managers may yet do some business with them. It seems the case of O'Connor has given some players stage fright, and if any one has signed he is not coming out in the open to acknowledge it at the present time. It will possibly be the policy of the unsigned players to keep their names from an American league contract until the close of the present season.

Col. Dreyfuss was a very busy man yesterday preparing his statement, which he will give out for publication tomorrow or Tuesday. The document, it is said, will be quite a lengthy one, and somestarling information is promised. The statement will certain the exact attitude of the unsigned players, and also tell what the Pittsburgh club has done to secure them for next season.

An announcement will possibly be made of all the new players secured for next season, and it is not improbable that an estimate of the comparative strength of the Pittsburgh team of 1902 and the club for next year will be given.

Local patrons of the game may rest easy about Tommy Leach, for a few weeks at least. The champions' third baseman has not yet signed with the rival organization, and it looks like an even money bet that he will be a member of the Pirate crew next season.

President Dreyfuss said last night that he had offered contracts to every member of the present team save one, who may yet out at the close of the season. He timated the Pittsburgh club would exnd as much money for players, if not e, than any team in the country.

he conferences on Saturday were not by any means, and there is not the doubt but that some of the unyed players will call at the club office have some little heart-to-heart talks before they take the step to the other league.

PIRATES WON IN TWELFTH

Chicago Team Was Defeated in a Fine Game at Exposition Park on Saturday.

It just required 12 innings for the Pittsburgh champions to win from Manager Frank Selee's Chicago recruits at Exposition park Saturday afternoon. The score was 3 to 2 and the 3,200 patrons were given a rare treat until Jesse Tannehill came home with the run in the last half of the 12th which won his own game.

The contest was a pitcher's battle from start to finish. Tannehill was pitted against Lundgren, the University of Illinois twirler, who pitched his first game in Pittsburgh. The youngster was cool and collected up until the last inning when the strain began to tell on him and he grew wild and Shortstop Tinker's error lost the game.

CLOSE FINISHES AT BIKE RACES

AMATEUR CHAMPION HURLEY LOST MILE HANDICAP TO GLASSON.

The Ten-Mile Professional Handicap, the Feature of the Card, Was Captured by Bardgett in the Sprint—Races Were Very Interesting.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 31.—Exciting finishes were the rule at the bicycle races at the Vailsburg track today. The attendance was about 3,500 and the sport good throughout. The best race of the day came in the 10-mile professional handicap.

There were 37 starters in all with eight of the number on scratch, the largest of the season. The scratch men were slow to get under way, with the result that the men placed on 350-yard mark caught up to the back mark men early in the struggle. The final sprint was between Bardgett and Ambruster, the former winning by a length.

While Hurley, the amateur champion, had little trouble in winning the half mile open, he met his match in the one mile handicap. Hurley tried to sprint a full quarter mile at the finish and found the distance a bit too far for his high gear, Glasson catching him at the tape and winning by a few inches. Both started from scratch.

In the one mile consolation for professionals the struggle was a good one throughout, with John Bedell winning by a few inches from Kimble.

The summaries:

Half mile open, amateur—Won by M. L. Hurley, New York A. C.; James Zanes, Newark, second; Henry Weisling, New York A. C., third. Time, 1:10 2-5.

One mile, consolation, professional—Won by John Bedell, Lynnbrook, L. I.; O. S. Kimble, Louisville, second; James B. Bowler, Chicago, third. Time, 2:30 4-5.

Ten mile handicap, professional—Won by Walter Bardgett, Buffalo, 350 yards; Edward Ambruster, Brooklyn, 350 yards, second; "Plugger Bill" Martin, Lowell, 150 yards, third; Menus Bedell, Lynnbrook, 150 yards, fourth; W. A. Rutz, New Haven, 150 yards, fifth. Time, 22:10 4-5.

One mile handicap, amateur—Won by George Glasson, Bay View Wheelmen, scratch; M. L. Hurley, New York A. C., scratch, second; Fred Dahlke, Buffalo, 120 yards, third. Time, 2:05.

Cleveland Fielder Caught Off Second in Tenth and Boston Won Close Game.

FORT WAYNE, IND., Aug. 31.—Thirty-five hundred people saw Boston win an 11-inning game from Cleveland this afternoon. Both sides played good ball, and Boston won strictly on the merits of the play. M'GOVERN TRAINS AT BASEBALL

BROOKLYN BOY ADOPTS NATIONAL GAME FOR REGULAR WORK.

Young Corbett Is Angry Over Published Reports of His Discharging His Manager—He Spends a Quiet Sunday at Training Quarters.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 31.—Excepting a baseball game this afternoon, one team pilloted by Terry McGovern and composed of his trainers and some pickups, the other composed of local pugilists, things were quiet at Camp McGovern today, as is usual on Sunday.

Terry, however, distinguished himself as a ball player. He made two hits, out of four times at bat, had three put-outs and five assists with no errors. His team played an errorless game, but lost by a score of 4 to 3.

Terry considers this a great way to train and goes into the game with a vim. He was continually on the coaching line today and worked hard to pull a winning run over the plate.

He will do little training, other than baseball playing, this week. Tomorrow he will play ball in the morning and take to the road in the afternoon. Tuesday he will begin his gymnastic work in the morning and play baseball in the afternoon. This program will be continued throughout this week, thus allowing him gymnastic work every other day.

Terry says he never felt better in his life and is ready to step into the ring at any time. "I am down to weight now, and as hard as a brick," said he. "I could go into a fight with 24 hours' notice and do myself justice. I will never overtrain, however, and am taking things easy and keeping myself in good condition."

A magnificent horseshoe was presented to McGovern by local pugilists for today's game.

At Camp Cobrett nothing whatever in the training line was done today. Some excitement and displeasure was shown by the publication of the fact that Manager Johnny Corbett and Young Corbett had severed business connections.

The intention and agreement was that Johnny Corbett go to Denver on account of illness, and a few days after reaching there would write a letter stating that owing to his being ill when he left Denver, he would be compelled to discontinue as Young Corbett's manager. However, the facts in the case leaked out through Newhouse, who severed connections as one of Corbett's trainers some days ago.

Young Corbett, speaking of the case today, said: "I am dissatisfied with the way my affairs have been conducted during the past year. I have had but one 10-round go and although I have been the featherweight champion for over a year, only about 20 people know it.

"I have concluded to manage my own affairs for a year and hope for better results. I will go to Louisville tomorrow and consult with Manager Gray. I will carry out to the letter the contract made by Johnny Corbett with Mr. Gray."

JUDGES AND THE LAWYERS HURRY BACK TO WORK

Something About the Vacations of Those on the Bench.

WHERE JUSTICES RESTED

Judge Frazer Was Kept at the Grind and Judge Rodgers Lay on a Bed of Sickness—Transformation on This Week.

This week will witness a complete transformation scene on the second floor of the Allegheny county court house. After a partial shutdown for the summer all the courts will be in active operation and the judges back at work after several weeks of rest from the arduous labor the position requires.

Common pleas court No. 2, however, will have to be run by Judge R. S. Frazer for at least two weeks, as Judge Elliott Rodgers is still very sick with typhoid fever at his home in Allegheny, and Judge John D. Shafer, who has been traveling in Europe, cannot reach the city until about September 15.

Different ideas prevail on the bench as to what constitutes a restful summer vacation. Judge John M. Kennedy of common pleas No. 3 always believes that farming is about as good a way to recuperate from the mental troubles of 10 long months in the court room, as a sojourn by the sea. His horror owns an interesting farm at Berkeley Springs, Hampshire county, W. Va., where he devotes certain months of the year to raising foodstuffs and watching the progress of nature on vegetation.

Has Made Berkeley Springs Popular.

Judge Kennedy's summer home is such a pleasant one that he always has a number of Pittsburgh friends as visitors, and has introduced Berkeley Springs to many Allegheny county lawyers, with the result that the hotels in the town are always filled with his fellow-townsmen, who say there is no more ideal spot on the continent.

Judge Shafer is a great traveler. When he is not journeying on the western slope of this continent, or in South America, he can always be located during his summer vacation in some of the countries of Europe. During the past two months Judge Shafer has been visiting scenes of history in Italy and Switzerland. He is a great student of history and historical subjects, and always takes in just as much of Europe as he can conveniently digest in one short season. This summer he spent his time in Naples, Genoa and parts of Switzerland, studying the country and its peoples. He is accompanied by Mrs. Shafer.

Judge Rodgers has had a hard time this summer, and his friends regret to learn that he has been very seriously ill. A few days ago no person was permitted to see him because of his condition, but his physicians are satisfied that he will be up in a few weeks and able to attend to his duties on the bench.

Judge Frazer Was Kept Busy.

Judge Frazer did not go away this summer. He has had his hands full, owing to the absence of both his colleagues, and while there has been no court for several weeks in No. 2, several special sessions were held to hear pressing matters, and his honor has been busy with opinions left unfinished, although Judge Shafer finished up his branch of the work before he departed.

Judge S. A. McClung, of common pleas court No. 3, has also remained at home. He has held court every Saturday during the summer, and spent the remainder of his time at his home on Murray Hill avenue. Judge Stowe, when not on a fishing trip in the wilds of Canada, likes to watch the tides come in, so puts in much of his time at the seashore. He was at Cape May and Atlantic City this season, and from all reports had a splendid time recuperating for the work of the coming terms.

Judge Marshall Brown of common pleas court No. 1 has been busy at home. He was away for four days only, taking a short run to Atlantic City.

Judge F. H. Collier believes there is no place like home, and as he has a beautiful location in Sharpsburg, surrounded by grounds that are the envy of many of his neighbors, he always spends his summers there, with the exceptions of short trips now and then. This summer was no exception.

Judge Evans Rested Easily.

Judge J. A. Evans is spending a few weeks at Spring Lake, N. J., with his family. This is the resort of a number of Pittsburghers who always enjoy the company of his honor.

Justice George Shiras, Jr., of the United States Supreme Court, says there is no better place to rest than his old home, Pittsburgh. He is now stopping at the Hotel Schenley with his family, and will spend some time with his friends. He visits his former law office almost daily and delights in thinking again of the old familiar days when he used to practice law with his former partner, C. C. Dickey, now associated with his sons, George Shiras, 3rd and W. K. Shiras, who follow in the footsteps of their famous father as real lovers of their profession.

Hundreds of attorneys who have made Pittsburgh renowned all over the world because of the lavishness with which they spend money wherever they go are returning to take up the work relegated to their desks during the vacation period. This week will put a different aspect on the court house situation, and what has looked like a morgue for two months will be turned to a hive of industry.

FIRE LOOKED UGLY.

Blaze in an Allegheny Stair Factory Early Yesterday Morning Caused Four Alarms.

The owners of the plant of the North avenue Stair Company, at North and Irwin avenues, Allegheny, which was badly damaged by fire early yesterday morning, place their loss at $10,000, on which there is $7,500 of insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown. There was no fire in the building and the floors were swept clean Saturday evening.

A few minutes after 2 o'clock yesterday morning the plant was discovered to be on fire and an alarm was sent in. When the firemen arrived the first floor was all aflame and a second alarm was sent in, it being feared that the old Cyclorama building, that of the Consolidated Ice Company, and several other buildings in the neighborhood would also catch fire. A third and fourth alarm were later sent in. The firemen, by hard work, confined the flames to the one building.

About 25 men are employed in the plant. The loss will be lumber, finished and partly finished stair work, machinery and belting. The company expects to resume operations in about a week.

OIL DRILLERS MADE A FAIRLY SATISFACTORY SHOWING LAST WEEK

Operators in the lower southwest fields had more to claim their attention during the past week than for some time past. On the whole it was a fairly good week and in some localities will serve to stimulate operations.

The most interest centered in the two Keener sand pools in Ritchie county, W. Va. The one on Big Knot run, in which the Three Joes Oil Company and Mallory Bros. are the leading developers, was expected to present new attractions early in the week, but owing to unavoidable delays they did not reach the sand till the close. The Three Joes company was the first to reach the sand, with its No. 4 on the Elroy Wagner farm. This well is located 400 feet northeast of the same company's No. 1 on the same farm and has not been fully drilled into the sand. In this end of the development the sand formation seems to be more open than in the vicinity of the initial well on the Wagner farm. This development now has nine producing wells, having an aggregate production of a little more than 1,100 barrels a day, or a little above the production of the Three Joes Oil Company's first producer on the Elroy Wagner farm.

Development in the Keener sand pool on Wolf Pen run were quite satisfactory during the week. At the outset developments in this pool were not of a sensational nature, the wells ranging from 100 to 200 barrels in size. On Saturday, however, Smith, Wilson & Brownlee, in their test on the Arnett farm, located a half mile west of the Cleveland and Farkersburg Oil Company's No. 1, on the Thomas E. Dye farm, and got a producer that started to flow at 25 barrels an hour when three feet in the Keener.

In addition to being the best producer in this development this new well shows a liberal extension of the producing area to the west of the other wells.

On the south fork of Hughes river, Murphy district, Ritchie county, there is very good prospects for opening a salt sand development. The first well drilled in is owned by the United States Oil and Coal Company, located on the J. B. Hallam farm. The well is now nearly a month old and is pumping 50 barrels a day. Friday last Jennings Bros. & Lockwood drilled in a test on the John Y. Warner farm, 500 feet northeast of the Hallam farm producer, and have a show for a 100-barrel well.

The good showing of new work starting in this locality and the new well will have a stimulating effect on operations in that section. On the whole, Ritchie county has more to offer in the way of new attractions than any other county in that lower southwest at the present time. The two Keener sand pools and the salt sand development will call for a large amount of development work and since the territory is not held in large blocks by any one company, there will be quite a scramble to start new work.

In actual work, under way and starting, the Folsom district, along Ten Mile run, Wetzel county, W. Va., is still far in the lead of all other fields. Four oil wells have been completed during the past two weeks and some new developments are promised for the present and coming week. In the end this territory will very likely produce more oil than all of the new pools combined in Ritchie county. More than three-fourths of the wells drilling in the Folsom district are owned by the South Penn Oil Company.

The Fish Creek and Little Germany districts, in Marshall county, W. Va., made a little more showing in the past seven days. Some very fair wells were completed, the South Penn Oil Company getting three, and the Eclipse Oil Company one. All are located inside of defined limits.

Southeast of Wellsburg, Brooke county, developments are reaching the interesting point. Interest in this territory had its inception more than two months ago, when the Carter Oil Company drilled in a test on the Underwood farm and got a 25-barrel producer. From the first this discovery has not been taken seriously and the two wells completed since the Carter got its first well, have not improved the outlook. The next two weeks should furnish some interesting information relative to this territory. The oil is extremely light, dark and limpid.

The once promising Harper pool, west of Jerusalem, Monroe county, has beyond a doubt been defined. The last two wells completed confirm this opinion, Roy Bros.' duster, two miles to the south, and the Unity Oil Company's light well, No. 5 on the John R. Mann farm, 1,000 feet to the south, shows that outside limits of the producing territory have been reached. Another location to the south of the John R. Mann No. 5, would more than likely result in a duster. To all except the Unity Oil Company this development has proven a disappointment. Not a single lease, outside of the holdings of the Unity company, has produced a barrel of oil. Efforts have been made in every direction to extend the pool, but all have resulted in failures. With dusters in the south the last chance for an extension disappears. The territory to the south and southwest was leased for miles in advance of the Harper pool; at present it doesn't look to be worth the paper on which the leases are written.

In the Keener and Big Lime districts, northwest of Rinard's Mills, in Monroe county, operations are increasing. The wells average about 20 barrels a day. The Big Lime sand development, southwest of Rinards Mills, in Washington county, is still furnishing some good producers, but it is not very reliable territory.

Two miles south of the old Bowerston pool, in Harrison county, O., a new Berea grip pool has been opened and holders of leases are losing no time in starting new work. Twenty barrels a day is about the average size of the wells.

EXPORTS GROW AGAIN.

Manufactures Shipped in July Exceed Those Shipped in Same Month Last Year.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 31.—The details of the July exports have just been made public by the treasury bureau of statistics. They show that the exportation of manufacturers is greater than in July of last year and form an unusually large percentage of the total exports. This is due to the fact that the very small exportations of corn and other cereals have made the total of July exports unusually small, though a careful examination of the details of the month's exportation of manufacturers shows that in most cases they exceeded those of the corresponding month of last year.

Importations of manufacturers' materials continue to form the chief feature of the increasing imports. The total importation of manufacturers' materials for the seven months ending with July is $202,305,050, against $221,827,767 in the corresponding months of last year, while the total exportation of manufactures is $245,736,062, against $230,603,429 in the corresponding months of last year.

The tables which follow show the detailed statements of imports and exports for the month of July, 1902, compared with July of the preceding year:

Weekly Review of Market Quotations

PITTSBURGH PRICES FOR FARM PRODUCTS

The Produce Market Is in a Healthy Condition and Prices Firm.

The quality of oats arriving at Pittsburgh is not up to the standard and the bulk of the daily receipt sare being classed as extra No. 2 and No. 3. The weather conditions the dealers say, have been decidedly against good crop yields, but late stock may show better quality. The oat market is cleaning up better and as a result, have been a little higher in the price during the past few days. Hay is higher, the demand being fair and the stock on hand moderate in supply. Shelled corn is firm, having gained 2 cents in the special quotations for the past three days. The rest of the grain market is steady.

A reduction of 5 cents a barrel was made in flour on Saturday, which was somewhat of a surprise to the street as high prices had been looked for. The change in price is attributed to the arrival of new wheat and the price being 5 cents lower. The demand for the grocery list is firm at last week's advances. There was little change made in the general market, salt mackerel being about the only commodity to show any advance last week. No change was made Saturday in canned goods and tomatoes are steady at last week's advance.

Last week the produce market opened in Pittsburgh with plenty of stock on hand, but on Saturday it was pretty well cleaned up and prices were firm. There were 65 cars of potatoes in the yards. The market is well supplied with potatoes, sales and wholesale dealers were slow to order during the latter part of the week, which accounts for the good market which prevailed Friday and Saturday. Tomatoes and cucumbers are much lower in price. Cantaloupes are also firm. Dealers report that cars from the Rocky Ford district are being delayed in shipment, which has caused better prices. Several cars were held on the road Saturday. Other products which should have arrived early Saturday did not get in until late in the afternoon. California grapes are coming in somewhat last week and the supply on hand was cleaned out Saturday and another consignment will not arrive until tomorrow. California pears have been in good demand and prices have moved forward as a consequence.

Butter, eggs and cheese are firm. There is a good demand for them. Butter is a cent a pound lower than it was one week ago, but a change is anticipated tomorrow in quotations, although there is no telling what the Elgin board will do when it meets tomorrow.

Poultry has been moving rather sluggishly and the demand has been quiet. Game, however, has been practically no change in prices. Many persons have been away on their vacations and this has caused a dull market. It is also reported from the country districts that the cool weather has been unfavorable to the raising of chickens and turkeys, and that prices will rule high in fall as a result. Breakfast bacon was advanced one cent a pound all around on Saturday and dry salt meats were also marked up a half cent a pound. No change was made in the price of lard, it standing at 11 cents a pound, which represents an advance of one-fourth of a cent a pound, made last week. The rest of the provision market is steady at current prices.

CAMPMEETINGS HELD 64 SEASONS AT HOLLOW ROCK

Same Schedule of Sessions Is in Vogue Today as Began in 1838.

ONE MEETING BROKEN UP

Devout Brother Kneels in Nest of Yellow Jackets at Groaners Meeting on Summit of Hill—Old Men Become as Youths.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Wellsville, O., Aug. 31.—Some time in 1838 the Rev. J. M. Bray, a circuit rider, suggested to some of the farmers living at Hollow Rock, six miles below this place, the idea of holding campmeetings. The farmers took kindly to the suggestion, and soon afterward the Rev. Mr. Bray began a series of meetings in an old stone schoolhouse.

Edward Taylor, father of Wesley Taylor, some time afterward offered to give part of his farm to be used as campmeeting grounds. The offer was accepted, and the meetings proved so successful that it was decided to continue them from year to year.

About one mile below the grounds, in the direction of Wellsville, was a cave, the entrance to which was hewn through a mammoth rock. In earlier years this cave served as a hiding place for Indians. Skeletons of many have been unearthed at various times. It was believed to have been haunted at one time, and people living in the immediate vicinity feared to pass the place after dark. This superstition, however, was later overcome.

From this hewn-out rock the name Hollow Rock was taken. Now the grounds have a state reputation. People go there from all over Ohio and from other states to attend the meetings that are held every year. These meetings began 64 years ago, when the grounds were set apart for campmeeting purposes. For 10 days in each of these 64 years, except one year, men and women who have given themselves to the Master's service have labored to bring the unsaved into the fold of the church.

Got Into Civil Court.

The year in which no meetings were held was one of stirring events. About 1882 the Rev. J. L. A. Miller succeeded the Rev. Mr. Bray. The meetings continued to grow in interest. In 1874 G. W. Dennis, another circuit rider, asked the district conference of the Methodist Episcopal church to make Hollow Rock a place for holding campmeetings. His request was ignored; but despite this action, meetings were held each year. One year, while the meetings were in progress, Mr. Dennis was told he must cease holding meetings at Hollow Rock. He defied the conference and continued them.

Out of this trouble grew an organization known as the "Hollow Rock association," with a membership of 32. Now the grounds are controlled by a stock company incorporated under the laws of Ohio. As soon as the news of the formation of this association came to the ears of the district conference an injunction was secured. Through a settlement out of court this was later dissolved. The church paid half of the costs and the association the other half.

Since then the meetings have been continued without molestation. They have been conducted at times by such well-known evangelists as the Rev. G. A. McLaughlin, editor of the Christian Witness of Chicago, and the Rev. H. C. Moorison, editor of the Pentecostal Herald of Louisville.

This year they are being assisted by a score of others, including evangelists from several states of national reputation. The meetings concluded today.

The Groaner's Meeting.

At many of these meetings sensational scenes are enacted. This is especially true of the "groaners'" meeting. This is held on the top of a nearby hill, and every evening the visitors and members of the association, climbed the summit, believing they will be nearer their Maker.

On the top of this hill they groan, cry and moan for the success of the meetings. Many women become hysterical and completely exhausted. Then they are carried to a more quiet and secluded spot, where they are allowed to regain their composure. The groans and moans of the attendants can be heard for a great distance. These meetings continue into the night without interruption.

During one of these "groaners'" meetings one of the brethren made the sad mistake of kneeling in a nest of yellow-jackets. He was so badly stung that he has not been on his knees since. He was confined to his room for some time. Others went around the grounds for days afterward with badly swollen faces. All looked as if they had suffered the pangs of toothache for many weeks. This accident had the effect of breaking up the meeting.

Old men rushed down the hill with the ease and agility of much younger men. Women toppled over each other in their efforts to get to a place of safety.

Why the People Attend.

Each year interest in these camp meetings increases. Some go out of sheer curiosity. Others go to "get religion," and a few go because they have no other place to go. At any rate, there are many people on the grounds at all times. So large has the attendance become that a large boarding hall has been opened. A few persons have built cottages and many others are living in tents.

The men who are now down to Hollow Rock begin to appear like anything but men. When they went there some time ago they did not take their razors. There had been a barber shop on the grounds every year and they expected to find it there this year, but it was missing. Consequently the men have been forced to allow their whiskers to grow. Some have whiskers fully half an inch long. To meet one of them in the woods at a distance would be to imagine yourself facing a groundhog or some other animal with bristle-like hair on its face and head.

Ninety Acres for Golf Links.

TITUSVILLE, PA., Aug. 31.—(Special.)—Dr. Charles Payne of Riceville, Pa., sold his 200-acre farm facing the foot of Canadohta lake, to the club bearing that name, which will use 90 acres of it for a golf course. Pittsburgh and local members of the Standard Oil Company mostly comprise the membership. Boat and club houses are in course of erection and a fine hotel already graces the lake grounds, which are 18 miles from this city and five miles from Union City.

JOSEPH HORNE CO.

Monday, Sept. 1, 1902.

THE FIRST DAY OF OUR BIG AUTUMN SALE.

The Beginning of Autumn.

Not chronologically, but to all intents and purposes, the Autumn season begins today. We enter the declining period of 1902. Most people are back from their Summer jaunts, the Exposition, better than ever, opens Wednesday evening with a concert by the inimitable Sousa, the seaside excursions are about over, and, all in all, we are practically into Autumn.

This store has made great preparations for a busy season. Our buyers were never so energetic as they have been in their buying season just ended. They have accomplished wonderful results in getting goods at close prices, so that in the important matter of under-prices we will be further in advance than heretofore.

It can be truthfully said we have ransacked the world. Fourteen of our buyers put in weeks in insular and continental Europe, while the force of buyers who look over the home markets have employed their time to best advantage.

Today we open the season with a brilliant sale, and not the least feature of it is the remarkable low prices for new goods.

Fancy Silks 65c Yard.

Sold everywhere for $1 a yard. But this is a little lot of some 1,260 yards that our buyer picked up in New York under a significant concession—enough to warrant us in selling them for 65c a yard.

Pretty silks for waists and evening dresses—cannele corded effects, the stripes with Persian colorings, and open work Pompadour effects in new Fall shades.

Underpriced Table Damask.

It is pretty well known how low our prices are on Linens of all kinds, and especially on table linens. So the following, merely by way of reminder.

$1 a yard for 72 and 81-inch Bleached Table Damask that sells regularly for $1.25, $1.35 and $1.50 a yard.

60c a yard for 64 and 70-inch wide Cream Table Damask that sells regularly for 65c and 75c a yard.

Another lot of 22-inch Napkins ready today at the under price of $1.75 a dozen.

Silk Waists Half and Less.

Waists of Black Peau de Soie, tucks and clusters of buttons down front, at $2.50 instead of $5.

And while looking over the Silk Waists you may as well see what we are selling underprice in Flannel Waists. Plain, tucked and embroidered Flannel Waists, various pretty shades, for $2, same grade that we have sold for $4.50, $5, $6 and $7.

A Remarkable Offer in Ladies' Dress Collars.

Half Prices for Entirely New Goods.

You know the kind we mean, those adjustable collars to wear over the Jacket, those very dressy collars.

Our buyer ran over to New York Wednesday night and he must have had these in sight, for they arrived Friday, but go on sale first this morning.

Some 1,200 of them in Lace, Pique, Silk and Linen, with more fancy trimmings, like tucks and insertions and openwork, than we could undertake to describe, or you would care to read about.

Suffice to say we are going to sell them today for half prices—

The 50c and 65c Collars for 25c each.
The 75c and 85c Collars for 35c each.
The $1 Collars for 50c each.
The $1.25 Collars for 63c each.
The $1.50 Collars for 75c each.
The $1.75 Collars for 75c each.
The $2.25 and $2.50 Collars for $1 each.

This is really a treat, and one of the best we ever offered.

Handsome Boas or Ruffs for Half.

Our buyer also picked up quite a lot of handsome white net Boas or Ruffs at a price which unables us to sell them for half the regular retail price.

There are two styles, both lace trimmed—one a cape effect, the other the regular ruff, and the prices today are

$2.00 Boas, or Ruffs, for $1.00.
$3.00 Boas, or Ruffs, for $1.50.

A Clearance of Toilet Sets.

Soaps and Tooth Powders.

Two personal requisites to which we all have recourse several times a day. Cheap today—

Elder Flower Soap, lately reduced from 5c to 2c, and still further reduced today to a single cent a cake.

Green Olive Soap, in great chunks, 10c each.

Tooth Powder put up in convenient little cans, 10c each.

Amolin Powder, an excellent antiseptic toilet powder, 12c a box.

Cheap Ribbons.

In price cheap—in quality fine. You will judge that from former prices.

25c a yard—sold for 50c, 75c and 85c—Lot of Fancy Stripes and Figured Ribbon, in widths from 4 to 6 inches.

20c a bolt—sold for 40c—Lot of Narrow Satin and Gros Grain Ribbon in pink and buff only. Ask for No. 2 half-inch ribbon.

We know of nothing nicer that the boarding school young lady could take along with her.

Staghead Garden Hose 14c a Foot.

This is a special garden hose and we had it branded with our trademark, the stag's head, because it was so good.

Regular price is 20c a foot. Only 575 feet to sell for 14c a foot.

The First Broadside on Dress Goods.

This section of this morning's news is remarkable—new woolens at almost the half line.

The offer is made up of a combination purchase of woolens in newest effects for Fall wear—part from a New York importer, part from a Philadelphia manufacturer—and is as follows—

15,000 yards of $1, $1.10 and $1.25 new Autumn woolens—54-inch narrow line Tweeds, 54-inch plain Dress Cheviots, and a variety of solid colors in Fancy weaves, together with new black Dress Fabrics—all to be sold for the singular price of ..... 78c Yd.

It will be noticed there is a saving of from 22 to 47c on each yard, according to the quality chosen.

It is one of those rare occasions that do not happen often, and very seldom at the beginning of a season. An opportune time for mothers who must dress their big girls for school, for visitors passing through the city from their summer trip, for any and every woman who likes to save neat sums on her purchases.

If $1.25 spick and span new Tweeds at 78c the yard is not interesting, then what?

Men's Summer-Weight Underwear.

That's what we mean—regular light weight underwear. Here's the argument: Suppose you have no use for it now, at the prices we propose to charge for it, it will repay any man to pay a few cents interest and carry it over until next season.

It is fine underwear that is never lowered in season, such for instance as

I. & R. Morley's English white gauze Undershirts, long and short sleeves. Not very many of them, but nearly every size from 32 to 50-inch chest. Always 50c, today 25c.

French Balbriggan Undershirts, short sleeves, 34, 38, 40 and 42 sizes, the Drawers in sizes from 32 to 40—always $1 a garment, today 50c.

Several lines of very fine imported Underwear—English and French makes—medium weights just right for the Fall season—brown merino that sells in season from $8 to $11 the suit, now reduced to $4 and $6.50 a suit.

I. & R. Morley's fancy striped unshrinkable light-weight wool underwear always selling for $7.50 to $8.50 a suit—today marked the even $5 a suit.

Fancy striped French Wool Underwear, medium weight, always $10 a suit, today $6 the suit.

Young Men's and Boys' Autumn Suits.

In the matter of dress young men and boys have a decided advantage over their elders. It really requires more care in making youthful clothes than clothes for full-growns, and the young people are a shade or two more fastidious.

And to think that excellent all wool suits can be purchased for such little prices as these—

$6 a suit, sold for $10—Long trousers suits of fancy mixtures and blue cheviots and blue serges.

$9 a suit, sold for $12 and $15—suits of rough cheviot in dark effects, and neat plaids and checks in worsteds.

$5 a suit, sold for $7 and $7.50—Sailor Suits in nobby serge and fancy cheviot, right weight for early Fall.

$3 a suit, sold for $5 and $6—Big boys' knee pant suits, about 100 to sell for the reduced price. Double-breasted coat, seat and knees of pants doubled.

$5 a suit, sold for $7 and $8—Stylish dress suits of worsted and Scotch tweeds. Good variety of patterns in dark and medium shades.

Madras Pajamas 75c.

Chance for men who never wore a sleeping suit—if you don't like it you are not out much.

This is a lot of colored and white madras pajamas that sold for $1 and $1.25.

Reduced Prices on Dress Trimmings.

Women certainly have use for such dress trimmings as the following. They had a short while back when these trimmings sold for regular prices.

Colored Applique and Persian Bands. These trimmings are anything from 2 to 10 yard lengths, and sold at 50c, 75c, $1.00 and up to $2.00 per yard. We will sell them in the piece at 25c per yard.

Black and Gold Braids, regular 15c and 20c braids at 5c per yard.

Ruffings—white ribbon ruffling with black edge, or plain white, 10c kind 5c per yard.

Odds and Ends of White Goods for Half.

Short lengths, but most of them can be worked up into a waist or even a dress, especially for girls.

There is such a great range of prices that the best way for us to do is to say come and select for half prices.

Embroidered and Printed Cottons, 38c a Yard.

A little lot of some 850 yards the remainder of our large import of printed and embroidered cottons. In the regular season they sold rapidly for 60c, 75c, 85c and $1 a yard.

Yard-Wide Black Taffeta 88c.

Besides being a yard wide it has that soft and light finish so much admired for long coats.

And that is what this silk is mostly used for.

It is a $1.15 grade.

Shirtwaist Suits $3 and $5.

We put what Shirtwaist Suits we have left from the great season into two lots. Choose at either $3 or $5.

The $3 Suits sold for $5 and $7.50. Made of fine damask and madras, pure white, pink, blue, black and white. Embroidered in pretty ways. Other neat trimmings besides embroidery.

The $5 Suits sold for $7.50 and up to $10: Made of fine white lawn, trimmed with either white or black embroidery. Some with handsome tucks, others with the neat Paquin fold.

New Torchon Laces.

Just came in Saturday and we are going to sell them for about half what they are really worth.

The prices will be 3c, 5c, 10c and 15c a yard.

Just the right widths, 1 to 3 inches.

Panne Velvets $1 a Yard.

Just 75c a yard less than the quality calls for, being a regular $1.75 grade.

These are all silk velvets in beautiful Persian colorings and designs.

Another Special Sale of Jackets.

Besides the winter-weight Jackets in black, we also make a special price on light-weight dressy tan jackets.

We say Winter weights, but you will find these Jackets just right for cool Autumn evenings. All the prominent styles: The Eton, the Russian Blouse, the 27-inch Box, the tight-fitting and the three-quarter length.

Fashionably trimmed in the prettiest effects, and such black materials as melton, kersey, broadcloth and cheviot.

All lined either with silk or satin.

Women's $12 to $18 Jackets $ 5.00.
Women's $15 to $22 Jackets $ 7.50.
Women's $20 to $50 Jackets $10.00.

The other Jacket feature will be light-weight Tan Etons of splendid kersey cloth. The trimmings are facings of white silk which in turn are edged with handsome lace. These are high-grade Jackets and sold for $20 and $25. Choice today will be $10.

Another line of fine tan Jackets, some of covert, some of kersey, will be priced as follows: $20 Jackets for $12.50; $25 Jackets for $15.

Hemstitched Handkerchiefs 9c.

3 for 25c.

Six thousand Irish Linen Handkerchiefs to sell for 9c each—the cloth fine, pure and sheer.

If you were to buy the handkerchief for 15c you would have a great value. Buying for 9c or 3 for 25c, gives you something remarkable.

Probably you will think the following offer superior to the above. It looks that way. 10c each for initialed Handkerchiefs, the initial hand-embroidered. Besides they are hemstitched, and the linen is Irish. We guess you have paid 18c for no better.

German Lisle Stockings 25c a Pair.

And a lot of French Cotton Hose at the same price.

Now the market is full of 25c stockings, but you don't often come across 50c, 75c and $1 stockings selling for the quarter-of-a-dollar.

The lisles are in beautiful patterns and the cottons have the newest French colorings, and the lot is composed of all our broken lines of fine stockings that sold for the prices given above. Today choice 25c.
